To reduce deficit

Dist. 25 studies combining schools

A plan to combine Arlington Heights Dist. 25 elementary and junior high schools has been proposed as one method of reducing the district's financial deficit.

Dist. 25 Board Member Nicholas Raino asked the board to study a plan which would combine the district's four junior highs with nearby elementary schools. According to the plan, the elementary school building would be closed and students would attend classes in a wing of the junior high building.

Raino has asked the administration to study the feasibility of combining Park School with South Junior High, Windsor School with Miner Junior High, Berkley School with Rand Junior High and Olive School or Wilson School with Thomas Junior High. The combination would occur when the junior highs have enough available space to accommodate the elementary school program.

RAINO PRESENTED his suggestion to the board of education Monday when it met as a committee-of-the-whole to discuss ways of offsetting a projected budget deficit in he district. The deficit is caused by declining enrollment which results in a loss of state aid revenue.

One of the methods of offsetting the deficit being considered by the board is the closing of schools. By closing schools the district may be able to eliminate staff costs and reduce maintenance and operating expenditures. Board members are now considering whether these savings would be of more benefit to the district than other options being considered such as reduction in programs, increases in class size and a referendum to increase taxes.

"I would like to see as few schools closed as possible," said Raino, because the community places a high priority on neighborhood schools.

Several other board members also presented their ideas on the possible closing of schools. Board member Bruce Chelberg suggested that the district transfer sixth graders from the junior high schools to elementary schools and close two junior high buildings.

BOARD PRES. William Beck said the board should consider the sale of Belmont Center and Dwyer School which are now being leased outside the district.

Belmont Center, the old village library, was purchased by the district years ago and used for special programs and special projects. It is now leased to the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization for its film library and Center for Child and Family Services and to High School Dist. 214 for an instructional resource center. Dwyer School is leased by the Northwest Educational Cooperative for offices and special programs such as bilingual education and career education.

Beck also said it's time to "bite the bullet," and he suggested that North School, one of the district's oldest schools, be closed. "North School has lost most of its value to the community," he said. "The sooner we cut the emotional umbilical cord and get it done with the better off this community is going to be," he said. The property has some potential for income for the district since it is located just north of downtown Arlington Heights at 410 N. Arlington Heights Rd.

Beck said he does not favor closing the district's junior high school buildings because they are some of the "finest educational facilities in the district." It would be "a shame to put them in mothballs," he said.

ALONG WITH some possible school closing the district should do everything in its power to reduce expenditures in other areas, said Beck. He suggested that the administration go over every item on the budget "with a fine-tooth comb."

Board member Richard Soby said he also feels the district should trim the budget and suggested that some increase in the size of classes may be necessary. Instead of closing a junior

Track employe indicted for '74 beating murder

A former Arlington Park Race Track employe was indicted Tuesday by the Cook County Grand Jury in connection with the beating death of a stablehand in August 1974.

The grand jury returned murder and auto theft indictments against Stanley Wayne Hood, 34, who also used the last name Woods.

Hood was arrested last November in Florida on warrants issued by Arlington Heights police. He is charged for allegedly beating to death John H. Walker, 51, of Covina, Calif.

Walker died at a Berwyn hospital after being transported from the race track to Hawthorne Park in Cicero, authorities said.

Hood and a companion, John Cochran, 36, also a racetrack employe, had told police they found Walker lying unconscious in the Arlington Park parking lot and thinking he was intoxicated, drove him to the Cicero track, police said.

Judge kills work order for Magnus

A court order allowing building permits to be issued for a 728-unit development on the Magnus Farm between Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect has been rescinded.

Circuit Court Judge Raymond Berg vacated the order he issued Jan. 16 upon a request from Arlington Heights Village Atty. Jack Siegel. Berg set a court date for Feb. 9.

Mount Prospect Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley said Tuesday that Mount Prospect may join Arlington Heights in opposing the Magnus proposal.

During hearings on the new Cook County comprehensive land use plan, both villages consistently opposed rezoning of the 42-acre nursing home complex on Central Road to allow 17.4 units per acre.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS has requested rezoning the property to a single-family classification, subject to a special use for retirement and convalescent homes.

The County Board voted Jan. 14 tentatively to approve the comprehensive amendment to the zoning ordinance, with the Magnus property zoned for eight units to an acre. Final action on the ordinance was taken Jan. 19.

But a petition requesting the building permits for 728 units was filed by an attorney for Magnus Jan. 14, after the vote setting the eight unit per acre zoning was taken, according to a letter from Siegel that was distributed to village trustees Monday night.

AN ANSWER to the Magnus petition was filed by the state's attorney with Judge Berg Jan. 16, which "failed to set forth the fact that there was a pending ordinance which would prohibit the use," Siegel said.

Although Berg's order was issued Jan. 16, Siegel said he was not informed of the decision until Jan. 27.

Eppley said Mount Prospect officials also were not notified.

"We should have been told, but weren't. I don't know what we'll do, but we're concerned about it," he said.

4 seek Harms post; choice due Thursday

Four persons have applied to fill the vacancy on the Arlington Heights Village Board.

Declared candidates as well as walk-in candidates will be interviewed tonight by the village trustees. The board is expected to fill the position vcated by Alice Harms Thursday night. Mrs. Harms resigned Jan. 19 after serving almost five years.

Both special village board meetings will begin at 8 p.m. at the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

APPLICATIONS HAVE been received from Ralph Clarbour and Mary Schlott. Walter Maczka and Alfred J. Barboro Jr. have "expressed an interest," Village Pres. James T. Ryan said.

All candidates will be allowed to speak briefly about their qualifications tonight and will then be questioned by the trustees, Ryan said.

Alfred Barboro

Mary Schlott

Ralph Clarbour

Walter Maczka

Both meetings will be open to the public. In the past, the board has filled vacancies after closed-door executive sessions without the names of unsuccessful candidates being made public.

Maczka, Barboro and Mrs. Schlott were all unsuccessful candidates for the village board in April 1975. Clarbour is a former trustee and was acting village president from July 1974 to April 1975.

Maczka, 26, of 630 N. Haddow Ave., is employed by Sargent and Lundy Engineers.

RUNNING AS an independent and spending only $110 on his campaign in April, Maczka finished sixth among eight candidates with 4,627 votes. Four were elected.

Ford favors state abortion control

by MICHAEL J. CONLON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said Tuesday he disagrees with the 1973 Supreme Court decision liberalizing abortion, but believes the operations should be permitted in rape and "unfortunate" cases.

His wife Betty issued a statement a short time later, saying she supported the court decision and the President's comment touched off a series of critical responses from both supporters and opponents of the decision.

The President said in an interview with CBS television that he favors a constitutional amendment permitting each state to write its own abortion regulations.

"I do not believe in abortion on demand," Ford said. "I do not agree with the Court decision of 1973. I think the court decision went too far."

FORD ADDED, however, "I think we have to recognize that there are instances when abortion should be permitted."

"The illness of the mother, rape or any of the other unfortunate things that might happen, so there has to be some flexibility," said Ford, citing instances in which he believes abortion should be allowed.

Ford said he opposes a constitutional amendment simply overturning the 1973 court decision, instead favoring an amendment

Attendants charge FAA imperiling lives

by ELMER W. LAMMI

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Stewardesses charged the Federal Aviation Administration Tuesday with endangering the lives of airline passengers by not providing greater safety for cabin attendants.

They told a House subcommittee investigating cabin safety that passengers may die in "survivable" air crashes because the very people responsible for getting them out of wreckage may already have been killed or injured.

The said the airlines should be forced to emphasize first aid rather than good grooming in instruction of flight attendants.

The charges were made by Mrs. Del R. Mott, director of safety for the Assn. of Flight Attendants, and Claire Corbett, safety representative for the Transport Workers Union.

FAA Director John L. McLucas conceded in testimony earlier Tuesday that the agency had "moved too slowly on occasions." But he said the FAA had to weigh costs as well as safety in efforts toward the impossible — a "prefectly crashworthy airplane."

Speaking for the nation's 20,000 flight attendants, Mrs. Mott said airplane structures generally remain intact in takeoff and landing accidents, but galley equipment, collapsing compartments and flying debris often injure cabin crewmembers and block exits. She also

Rate boosts asked by Citizens Utilities

Residents in the New Town area of Mount Prospect, forced to boil water Monday and Tuesday because of possible contamination, face a 70 per cent increase in their water rates and a 100 per cent hike in sewer service rates. Citizens Utilities Co., which serves about 6,800 customers in the New Town area and Prospect Heights, has asked the Illinois Commerce commission to allow the rate increases. Meanwhile, tests of water provided to the 20,000 residents served by Citizens shows no signs of biological contamination. The tests were ordered after water pressure in the firm's lines dropped to zero Monday. State and village officials feared the water may have been contaminated, and urged residents to boil their cooking and drinking water until the tests were completed.

Dismissal asked in Gscheidle suit

An Arlington Heights businessman has asked the Circuit Court to dismiss a $1 million lawsuit filed against him by Jeanette Gscheidle, Palatine's lady Santa. Robert Venti, owner of The Golden Dolphin Bath Boutique, 350 E. Rand Rd., was sued because Mrs. Gscheidle says he publicly called her "a disreputable person." In her suit, Mrs. Gscheidle charges Venti with contacting newspapers and merchants to tell them of her deceptive practice conviction. The woman, who visits children's homes, nursing homes and schools during the Christmas season as Mrs. Santa and who appeared on Tom Snyder's NBC Tomorrow Show in New York, feared organizations would not invite her back next year because of Venti's alleged contact with officials of the organizations. He denied the charges.

Driver AK after gas truck crash

An Aurora man narrowly escaped serious injury Tuesday when his gasoline tank truck crashed into power poles and overturned near Sutton and Golf roads in Hanover Township. Hoffman Estates firefighters, assisted by area fire departments, worked feverishly for about a half hour to free Clarence Wilkinson, 51, from the wreckage of the truck cab while gasoline from the 8,000-gallon tanker spewed onto the ground. Authorities said there was a small grass fire at the scene, but state troopers extinguished the fire about 3 p.m. Hoffman Estates Deputy Fire Chief Edward Kalasa credited the cold weather with preventing the area from turning into an inferno. Wilkinson was treated and released from Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

IVI endorses only 15 as judges

The Independent Voters of Illinois Tuesday announced its endorsement for only 15 of 116 candidates seeking judgeships in the Cook County Circuit Court, the Illinois Appellate Court and the Illinois Supreme Court. "As such, we have chosen to endorse only those candidates whom we believe truly merit judicial posts," IVI Chairman Steven Klein said. "It is a shame we could not have more highly qualified people on the ballot, but we are positive the 15 people we support would serve the people of Illinois well and would do much to enhance the already tarnished stature of the judiciary."

$24.9 million in question

State medical aid program hit

by WANDALYN RICE

The Illinois Dept. of Public Aid is costing Cook County taxpayers $24.9 million because of its policies, suburban County Comr. Mary MacDonald charged Tuesday.

Mrs. McDonald, a persistant critic of the county hospital budget, administered by the county hospital governing commission, said figures given to her by hospital officials support their contention that the state's payment policies are responsible for much of the financial trouble facing the commission.

The $24.9 million, Mrs. McDonald said, is made up of $14.8 million in Medicaid payments the state has owed the hospital since last year, and about $10 million the state does not pay because it discounts bills sent by the hospital.

Most of the $10.1 million is owed to Oak Forest Hospital, a long-term care-nursing home facility. Last week Dr. James Haughton, executive director of the governing commission, said the state refuses to pay full patient cost at Oak Forest because state officials claim costs are lower at other nursing homes.

MRS. McDONALD said the claim is incorrect because costs at other nursing homes do not cover doctors fees and other costs that are covered at Oak Forest.

The hospital governing commission is asking the county board to raise property taxes by six and one-half cents per $100 assessed value this year.

Mrs. McDonald said the state's policies mean the state is able to balance its budget, "but what they are doing is putting the costs onto the local taxpayer. We're going to reduce the hospital request to cut some administrative fat, but if we still have to raise taxes, it's because of the state."

Mrs. McDonald said she will propose cuts in the hospital budget before it is adopted. She also said she may urge the county board to go straight to the state to try to resolve funding problems.

"If the governing commission is unable to make any progress with the state, the county board is going to have to get involved and try to thrash things out," she said.

James Earl Ray seeks new trial

CINCINNATI (UPI) — James Earl Ray contends he did not shoot Dr. Martin Luther King, claims his guilty plea was illegally coerced and wants a trial, an attorney for Ray argued before a federal appeals court Tuesday.

A three-judge U. S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals panel, which questioned Ray's attorney in unusually long, 75-minute oral argument, is expected to take several weeks before deciding if Ray will get a trial.

Should a trial be ordered, it would reopen the investigation into the April 4, 1968, assassination of King and possibly provide answers to the widely debated question of whether there was a conspiracy to murder the civil rights leader.

Ray, currently serving a 99-year sentence at the Tennessee State Prison in Nashville, has been trying to get his plea changed and win a trial since almost the day after he pleaded guilty to first degree murder on March 10, 1969.

"Ray contends he did not shoot King," attorney James H. Lesar said after court Tuesday. "He claims he was framed."

Lesar, who called the Ray case "unique and bizarre almost beyond belief," argued that Ray was coerced by his former attorney, Percy Foreman, to plead guilty. Lesar contended Foreman was interested in getting the case closed to make money from magazine, book and movie rights to Ray's story.

Ray's hope for a trial hinges on whether the court decides Foreman's actions violated Ray's right to responsible counsel. A lower federal court in Tennessee already has ruled against Ray on this issue, and Tuesday's hearing was an appeal of that decision.

Judge Anthony J. Celebrezze told Lesar that Ray stated in court in 1969 that he was not being coerced into pleading guilty.

James Earl Ray

"The problem in coercion is that the person under coercion will deny it," answered Lesar. "Ray distrusted Foreman, but felt he was boxed in."

Asked Judge William E. Miller, "Why did Ray plead guilty and take the advice of someone he mistrusted?"

Replied Lesar, "Who else was he going to get advice from? Ray had already fired one attorney and Foreman told him, 'You get rid of me, you're going to go to trial with the public defender.' "The fact is Ray wanted a trial, but he wanted it under an attorney who had investigated his case. He was afraid Foreman was going to throw a trial. As Ray saw it, in pleading guilty he took the only alternative route he had."

William J. Haynes Jr., of the Tennessee attorney general's office, argued that Ray should not get a trial because Foreman did make an "extensive and exhaustive" investigation into the case.

"But he found nothing to refute the state's case, and if Foreman was to save his client's life, it required a guilty plea," Haynes said.

JFK knew of CIA plots to kill Castro: Goldwater

Barry Goldwater

by DANIEL F. GILMORE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said Tuesday he has known for years about CIA plots to kill Fidel Castro and suggested Senate investigators have suppressed evidence that President Kennedy authorized those plots.

Goldwater, a member of the Senate Intellligence Committee, rejected that panel's finding that the CIA might have plotted independently to kill the Cuban premier in the early 1960s.

He said "all the evidence" of Kennedy's involvement is contained in the 900 to 1,000 pages of secret testimony the committee took in 10 months of hearings on the assassination issue.

"It was presidential," Goldwater said. "We spent nine of the 10 months trying to get Kennedy's name out of it."

Gesturing toward the White House, Goldwater said: "Everything points right down there" on the issue of who authorized the CIA assassination schemes.

The House Intelligence Committee, meantime, resumed debate on proposals for reform of the intelligence agencies and congressional oversight of their activities. Congress prevented the House committee from publishing its final report on covert operations last week.

Goldwater discussed the assassination issue with reporters outside a Senate Government Operations Committee hearing room, where he opposed his own committee's proposal for strict congressional oversight of intelligence agencies. He urged Congress and the news media to "get off their backs."

In a report published last November, the Senate Intelligence Committee disclosed the CIA developed at least eight schemes for killing Castro between 1960 and 1965 and also made one attempt to kill Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba in early 1960.

The report said it could not prove Presidents Kennedy or Lyndon B. Johnson even knew about the Castro plots because the chain of command was "ambiguous." But it did find "a resonable inference that the plot to assassinate Lumumba was authorized by President Eisenhower."

Those findings have rankled many congressional Republicans, who claim the Democratic-dominated Senate panel pulled punches to protect Kennedy and Johnson while casting blame on Eisenhower.

Goldwater said word of the Castro plots "came to me early in the 1970s, early in 1972, from someone in the know," whom he declined to identify.

Asked whether he had voiced any concern about the murder plots at the time, he said: "No. It was merely talk. If it was part of a presidential plan, I was not going to talk about it. I was only a senator."

Denatl care went up 7.8 per cent and prescription and other drugs 7.4 per cent.

House to weigh deregulation of gas prices

The House Tuesday handed an initial victory to supporters of freeing the fuel from federal price controls. Members voted 230 to 184 to allow long-term "deregulation" of gas prices to be considered along with an emergency bill that would merely cover winter emergency sales. The vote actually concerned the rule for taking up the issue for debate, but it constituted an approximate show of support for long-term deregulation after decades of federal control. The House may vote late Wednesday on the deregulation bill itself.

Patty jury selection today; drop charges, Bailey asks

by JACK V. FOX

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A panel of 36 ordinary citizens ranging from housewife to airline hostess, carpenter to army engineer, was tentatively approved Tuesday to decide the fate of Patricia Hearst.

The final jury of 12 regulars and four alternates was scheduled to be chosen Wednesday morning from the over-all 36 after the prosecution and defense exercise peremptory challenges.

That would clear the way for what a defense lawyer has called the "trial of the century" to get under way exactly two years after Miss Hearst, 21-year-old granddaughter of legendary newspaper empire founder William Randolph Hearst, was kidnaped from her Berkeley apartment.

Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey sprang a last-minute surprise Tuesday with a motion to dismiss the armed bank holdup charges and another to ban evidence about Patricia's subsequent conduct for the 19 months while she eluded the FBI.

Details of the two motions were under seal and it was not known on what grounds Bailey was asking for dropping of the charges.

U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter, who originally predicted jury selection would take only two days, finally got the panel of 36 a week later after questioning of prospective jurors behind closed doors with public and press barred.

Another defense lawyer, Albert Johnson, said Miss Hearst was following the legal maneuvering keenly.

She has been present in the locked courtroom with her parents, Randolph and Catherine Hearst, during the past week.

"She is intent on the proceedings and aids us on the jury selection," Johnson said. "She looks at the backgrounds of the jurors and comments on them. Her comments are taken into consideration.

The tentative panel included 18 men and 18 women.

There were several bank employes, interesting in that Miss Hearst is charged with endangering the lives of bank personnel, customers and bystanders with a deadly weapon.

There was a street sweeper, a dental assistant, three post office employes, several widows, a number of retired men, an American Indian, a supermarket manager, a spinster school teacher.

Opening statements in the trial were expected to be delayed until Carter deals with the defense motions.

One asked the court for a hearing on the "admissibility of the defendant's alleged subsequent criminal and unlawful conduct." after the bank robbery.

The judge also granted motion by the defense to have Miss Hearst taken to a medical doctor for the "taking of X-rays of her head, face and skull."

The purpose of that action also was obscure, but it appeared Bailey was attempting to show that the young woman had been so badly beaten by her captors that the physical result is still apparent.

allowing the states option.

MRS. FORD'S press secretary, Sheila Weidenfield, said later, "Mrs. Ford, as she has said before, today said she supports the 1973 decision."

A statement issued by Mrs. Ford said, "I am glad to see that abortion has been taken out of the back woods and been put into the hospitals where it belongs."

The resident of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin of Cincinnati, immediately took issue with Ford's views and urged politicians to support a constitutional amendment "to protect the fundamental right to life of the unborn."

On the other side, Judith L. Lichtman, executive director of the Women's Legal Defense Fund in Washington, said if the President is really interested in the well-being of women "he ought to use his office to enforce the Supreme Court decision."

Roy Lucas of Washington, one of the attorneys who won the 1973 decision, said a constitutional amendment such as Ford suggested would result in women having different rights depending on the part of the country they live in, with wealthy women having an advantage over the poor.

Ford said the 1973 decision inhibits state regulation.

"But if there is to be a constitutional amendment and there are some suggestions in the Congress now that would permit each state on its own — through a vote of the people or through its state legislative branch — to adopt its own state regulations. If there is to be one, I think that's a preferable answer, rather than the one that's recommended by others," Ford said.

cited badly located jump seats.

Miss Corbett and Mrs. Mott said cabin attendants should be licensed by the FAA — just as pilots are — and should be given more emergency training by airlines.

"The curriculum of most carriers provides for more time spent learning good grooming techniques than first aid procedures," said Miss Corbett.

The subcommittee already has collected evidence that many passengers have survived the initial impact of airliner crashes, only to die from fire, smoke and noxious gases because they were unable to escape from the airplane.

"Between 1964 and 1970 in survivable aircraft accidents, 4 per cent vable aircraft accidents, 43 per cent of the flight attendants were killed or seriously injured in the takeoff phase, while 48 per cent were killed or severely injured in the landing phase," Mrs. Mott said.

Dist. 59 reverses budget policy

by JUDY JOBBITT

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education will attempt to balance the budget next year, reversing its decision last week to consider operating with a $500,000 budget deficit for 1976-77.

The board Monday changed its direction in preparing the 1976-77 education fund budget and asked that the administration project the effect of a balanced budget on the education programs.

Last week, the board agreed to look at a $500,000 deficit in the education fund and asked for guidelines for possible program cuts to meet a deficit budget, allowing for an 8 per cent inflation factor.

"WE NEEDED TO have more data than was available to make that decision" said Avis Wold, board member.

Ms. Wold asked the administration to work toward a balanced budget and show the effect of a balanced budget on the education programs. These projections will be presented to the board at a budget committee meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the administration center, 2130 Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Arthur Perry, district financial director, projected a deficit of about $2.3 million if the district maintains its current programs and is hit by inflation of 8 per cent.

The projection is based on a total revenue of $10.2 million that includes an increase of about $1.25 million from the tax rate increase approved by the voters in September. Total expenditures with an 8 per cent inflation factor are estimated at $12.3 million, which includes a $200,000 cut from this year's budget for declining enrollment.

The district could absorb a $500,000 deficit if it borrows the maximum allowed, but the board Monday directed the administration to prepare a budget that does not require maximum borrowing.

SEVERAL PARENTS attending the Monday meeting questioned how the district could have such financial troubles after the voters approved a tax rate increase of 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation last fall.

Supt. Roger Bardwell said the district "is really in good financial shape. We cannot increase the budget. We have to be prudent." He said the district has enough borrowing power to handle a $500,000 deficit as requested by the administration, and that using this borrowing power "makes good sense."

"We can borrow money cheaper than anyone else in the community," he said. "Ideally it would be better not to do that at all, but it is better to do that than tax the taxpayer and carry a surplus."

Bardwell said "what has been termed deficit spending," or borrowing money to meet the district's expenses, is "really sound financing."

HE ALSO SAID the district has lost about $2 million in state aid during the past two years, which has hurt the financial picture. During the past four years, he said, the tax rate also dropped by 13 per cent, or from $2.56 per $100 assessed valuation in 1971 to $2.23 in 1974.

Bardwell also answered questions about the alternative school concept, or a school that would stress basic academics.

Several parents questioned what an alternative school is and what type of answer the district is looking for in a questionnaire distributed recently to parents.

Bardwell said an alternative school would emphasize basic academics, and "extras" like art, music and physical education would be kept to the minimum allowed by the state.

He said the district is trying to determine how many parents would want their children in this type of strict academic setting through the questionnaire. He said he anticipates setting up part of one of the school buildings with this type of program if enough interest is generated.

New police station need debated

Two Arlington Heights trustees have asked for an immediate review of the village's capital improvements program in the wake of requests for a new police station.

Madeline Schroeder and David Griffin requested this week that the improvements program be reviewed immediately after budget hearings are concluded this month. Both trustees questioned whether a new police station should be built now because of the number of projects the village already has planned.

The village board's finance committee last week directed Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson to conduct an analysis of police department needs and cost estimates within 60 days. Hanson had requested that the committee recommend hiring an architect at the meeting Jan. 27.

PROPOSED SITE for the new police station is on Sigwalt Street, immediately east of the municipal building where police facilities are now housed.

"It seemed to me that the administration was already determined at that meeting that we should have a new police building," Mrs. Schroeder said. "It seems to me we should get some alternatives and think about hring a consultant if we are to go into such a project."

Griffin agreed, saying "I have no doubt that the administration will come back and justify this." He said priorities need to be established before additional public works projects are started.

"There's only so much you can do in the village. We can't keep going on and on passing bills back to the taxpayers," Griffin said. "I realize the police are crowded, but sometimes you have to make do. You can't have a lollipop every day."

TRUSTEE O. V. Anderson again argued for a new police facility. "I don't think we're getting the maximum amount of efficiency with the conditions our police department are working under today," he said.

A review of the village's capital improvements program would have occurred sometime in 1976 anyway, Hanson said. "It's always updated every two years," he said.

The present program budget runs through 1979. It includes a $1 million commitment for the Arlington Heights Road underpass, $1.9 million for a water station, $4 million to start the flood-control program and $500,000 for a maintenance garage.

Dismissal of Gscheidle suit urged by owner of boutique

An Arlington Heights businessman has asked Cook County circuit Court to dismiss a $1 million suit filed against him by Palatine's lady Santa Claus, Jeanette Gscheidle.

Mrs. Gscheidle, 620 W. Colfax St., Palatine, filed the suit Dec. 24 charging that Robert Venti had publicly called her "a disreputable person."

Venti's answer to the suit, filed Jan. 28, denies all charges made by Mrs. Gscheidle.

MRS. GSCHEIDLE, who visits children's homes, nursing homes and schools with gifts during the Christmas season, was highly publicized in December, including an appearance on Tom Snyder's Tomorrow Show in New York.

Her clash with Venti became publicized Dec. 12 when she pleaded guilty to charges of writing a check for $48.98 at Venti's store, the Golden Dolphin Bath Boutique, 350 E. Rand Rd., Arlington Heights, in October 1974, shortly after closing her bank account.

Venti said she offered to pay the debt shortly before the court date but that he refused to accept the payment at the request of the Cook County State's Attorney's office.

In her suit, Mrs. Gscheidle charges Venti with calling newspapers and merchants to tell them of her deceptive practice charges. She decided to file the suit because "she got worried the directors of organizations would not invite her back (as Santa Claus) next year," Joel Chernoff, her attorney, said when it was filed.

"SHE FEELS THAT what happened to her as Jeanette Gascheidle was a mistake in judgment on her part. She feels it should not affect what she's trying to do to help some people who need some cheer," he said.

Venti's answer to the suit begins with a 32-line parody of " 'Twas the Night Before Christmas." It also states: "he (Venti) does not believe that Santa Claus has criminal tendencies, impairment of moral character or is a disreputable person, having always held him in the highest esteem. However, (he) does not identify the plaintiff and Santa Claus as one and the same person."

It adds that Santa Claus is a person of good moral character, "especially at Christmas as is demonstrated by his willingness to travel throughout the world on an open sleigh in all types of weather delivering gifts. However, (Venti) is without information or belief as to (Mrs. Gscheidle's) moral character except to state, on information and belief, that she has traveled throughout the area cashing bad checks."

Baptismal bowl 'found' in church

A baptismal bowl, thought to have been stolen from the First United Methodist Church of Arlington Heights, was recovered last week.

The Rev. Charles Jarvis, church pastor, said a member of the church had been cleaning the silver bowl when he was interrupted. The church member hid the bowl in a closet for safekeeping.

Rev. Jarvis said the man was taken ill before he could complete the cleaning or tell anyone where the bowl was hidden.

After reading of the bowl's "loss" in Thursday's Herald, the church member called Rev. Jarvis.

Rev. Jarvis reported the bowl was recovered from its hiding place Thursday morning.

Alleged sewer polluter faces suit

Elk Grove Township officials said Tuesday night they will file a lawsuit against an alleged sewer system polluter who has refused to attend township pollution hearings.

Township Supervisor Richard M. Hall said a lawsuit is being prepared against DeBruyne Enterprises, 2420 E. Oakton St., one of six firms cited by the township for putting high levels of grease and oil into the Oakton Industrial Park sanitary sewer system.

Hall said the township, through the same legal action, will try to collect a year's worth of sewer maintenance fees, which DeBruyne allgedly has not paid.

Nita Stamm, township environmental officer, would not give an estimate of how much the firm owes the township. She said the records will have to be checked to find that figure.

MRS. STAMM did say the township would try for the full penalties authorized in its anti-pollution ordinance, which was passed last August by the township board. Thr ordinance calls for fines up to $100 a day and curtailment of sewer services.

"We don't want to meet with them anymore. We want the problem corrected," Mrs. Stamm said, adding that not only did the firm not show up at the Jan. 20 hearing, but efforts to meet with officials of the company at the firm also proved unsuccessful.

Mrs. Stamm said the other five firms that attended hearings Jan. 19 and 20 all said they would cooperate in correcting the pollution problem. One firm, Cumberland Servicenter, 2375 Oakton St., which had the highest pollutant levels, has hired an outside consultant to propose how its system can be improved to eliminate grease and oil, she said.

The other four firms are Donlon Engineering Co., 125 Elizabeth Dr.; Nolden Steel Fabricators Inc., 105 Weiler Rd.; Ronnie Kaplan Engineering Co., 115 Elizabeth Dr.; and National Industrial Trucking 2225 E. Oakton St.

The six firms will be retested for oil and grease content in sewers about March 1, at which time township officials have predicted most of the problem will be solved.

Dist. 59 mulls combining schools

high school he suggested that a wing of the building be closed and leased to another public agency.

Board member Edith Jolly said that if a choice must be made between cutting back district programs and keeping schools open "the education and programs in my thinking take priority over buildings."

Mrs. Jolly also said a referendum to increase taxes must be considered to offset the projected deficit in the district. "We as a community have a responsibility to go to the community to see if the community is willing to pay more for its schools," she said, but cautioned that the referendum should not be made into a "threatening thing" by stating that programs may be cut or schools may be closed if voters reject the increase.

"I THINK WE have to tell the people what the consequences are, including school closings," said Raino. "We need the money that a referendum would give us. If it fails the district will survive but I dislike very much some of the consequences that will be necessary," he said.

"We can't go about saying that this referendum will keep schools open," said Mrs. Jolly. Raino said he would rather see "class sizes increased rather than school closings."

Board members discussed the sale of tax anticipation warrants as a means of cushioning the projected deficit next year, since any increase in taxes would not aid the district until the 1977-78 school year.

Tax anticipation warrants would be sold to produce funds next year based on the following year's anticipated tax revenue.

The board will continue its discussion of ways to offset the district's projected budget deficit when it meets as a committee-of-the-whole Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the administration center, 301 W. South St., Arlington Heights.

Candypants!

Whether in good or bad taste, Chicago company finds its edible underwear a delectable success

by BROOKE W. KROEGER

A fledgling Chicago manufacturing firm says it has a three-to four-week backlog on orders for an all-candy underwear called "Candypants."

And the Valentine's Day rush is on.

The panties — good and bad taste both, perhaps — hit test markets in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and Bloomington, Ind., in December.

Retailers apparently found the novel wear-it-or-eat-it product yummy, at least from a business point of view. Their makers say "thousands of pairs" have been sold.

THE PANTIES, produced by Cosmorotics Inc., are really made of candy. They come in three flavors — hot chocolate, banana split and wild cherry. They're available in both men's and women's styles.

David Sanderson, 27, said he got the idea for the sweet pants about four years ago. He said he held off until he felt the public was ready.

Then he, Lee Brady, and a candy chemist named Derek McManus, 35, spent a year getting the product ready for sale.

They have concentrated on small lingerie stores and pharmacies, trying — Sanderson said — to avoid a kinky image.

"We're trying for a universal market," he said.

THE FOOD AND DRUG Administration approves all the ingredients in the panties, listed on the black-and-red "Candypants" box as modified food starch, glycerine, inverted sugar, mannitol, lecithin, artificial flavor and artificial color.

Red licorice drawstrings hold up the pants, which look like bikini - style plastic pants for an infant. The only difference is they are tasty and dissolve in the mouth.

Put in water, they disappear. Left out of their "freshness" bag, they become brittle. Left out in the cold, they freeze.

"Just like candy," Sanderson said.

"Lots of middle-aged people have purchased them," he said. "People don't relate to them sexually but as an oddity. Walgreens even called to inquire about them today."

HE SAID THE oddest thing buyers ask is, "Can they be washed? Think what would happen if you put candy in a washing machine," he said.

Brady said about 5 per cent of those who buy the panties will wear them.

"About 95 per cent buy them for a gag gift," he said. The three young entrepreneurs say they're sure they'll recover their "five-figure" investment before the fad dies out. The pants sell for $5.50 a pair retail and $2.75 a pair to wholesalers.

Aide indicted in nursing home fire

A nurse's aide who police said had a "bad history of pyromania" was indicted on murder and arson charges Tuesday in the fire that killed 15 elderly and infirm residents of the Wincrest Nursing and Rest Home in Chicago. A Cook County Grand Jury returned a 47-count indictment against Denise Watson, 21. Authorities said she broke down early Tuesday and admitted she had dropped a match into a patient's clothes locker last Friday before smoke billowed through the third floor and trapped the victims in a chapel. The indictment charged Ms. Watson, who had worked at the North Side nursing home less than two weeks and was herself hospitalized for smoke inhalation after the fire, with two counts of arson. It also charged her with three counts of murder for each of the 15 victims.

Smoke stalls Civic Center elevators

Smoke from a bank of electrical transformers atop Chicago's Civic Center stranded a number of passengers in elevators Tuesday. Firemen reported they could find no fire, only smoke from the bank of electrical transformers on the 31st floor. "No, it's not serious," the spokesman said. Two men were injured. Firemen said the smoke was confined to a single machine room on the 31st floor, a maintenance area.

Pension suspended; no hearing: Kerner

Former Gov. Otto Kerner testified Tuesday his pension payments from the Illinois Employes' Retirement System were suspended in 1973 without a hearing. Kerner also said Atty. Gen. William J. Scott never offered a formal opinion saying his $335.08-a-month pension should be permanently revoked. An informal advisory letter from Scott to the retirement system became the basis for ending his pension. Kerner's testimony came during the second day of a hearing before the state retirement system to decide if the one-time Democratic governor is entitled to the pension benefits cut off after his 1973 conviction for bribery and income tax evasion.

State school unit OKs policy document

The Illinois Board of Higher Education Tuesday approved a document known to educators as "Master Plan phase IV." It contains policy statements which will determine the course of the states' colleges and universities for the next several years. MP IV as finally adopted forecasts hard times ahead for education, and it puts limitations on what each campus can do. But its tone is more conciliatory than previous versions. The plan also restates the board's recommendations that tuition at state universities be increased each year until students ars paying one-third of what it costs to instruct them.

Three men indicted on heroin charges

Three Aurora men were bound over to a federal grand jury in Chicago Tuesday for allegedly selling ten pounds of heroin to U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration agents. After a preliminary hearing, U.S. Magistrate James Balog determined there was probable cause to believe Jesus Chaidez, 36; his brother, Lucio, 21, and Jamie Cabada sold the heroin to agents on Jan. 16.

High-priority list to get gas service

Schools, churches and other high-priority waiting list customers will receive natural gas service, said a Northern Illinois Gas Co. spokesman.

Some of the customers on the waiting list asked for service in 1970.

C. J. Gauthier, NI-Gas chairman and president, said the action follows Illinois Commerce Commission approval of a request to serve new customers.

Gauthier said 86 per cent of the 3,100 requests for service will be met if all eligible customers accept the service.

NI-Gas has limited large-volume new accounts and additional loads since 1969.

Scrap iron chief on Howlett panel

by STEVE BROWN

A scrap iron trade association official, who is caught up in the controversy surrounding Sec. State Michael Howlett's $15,000 a year steel company job, is also a member of a state board headed by Howlett.

The Herald has learned through a check of state records that William J. Guggenheim, an employe of the Polerized Steel Co. and a representative of the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, also is a member of the Illinois Vehicle Recycling Board.

The board, which is under the jurisdiction of Howlett, a Democratic candidate for governor, sets state policy regarding scrapped autos.

Howlett has found himself the target of conflict of interest charges since it was disclosed he has been paid $225,000 since 1960 to serve as a consultant to the Sun Steel Co. of Chicago Heights.

SUN STEEL IS owned by the M. S. Kaplan Co., the area's largest scrap iron dealer. Several persons serve as officers in both companies.

Howlett and his aides have denied conflict of interest exists. Howlett has told reporters he served as a consultant for the company on labor relations and sales. Company officials have declined to outline the exact nature of Howlett's role with the company.

Guggenheim's company is also owned by M. S. Kaplan. He is one of the five public members of the Vehicle Recycling Board, according to state records.

The center of the conflict of interest controversy involves legislation passed by the Illinois General Assembly last year, but vetoed by Gov. Dan-iel Walker. The legislation would have enforced by the Secretary of State, requiring auto wreckers to keep identification records of autos they exempted scrap iron dealers from a process.

STATE RECORDS show Howlett supported the bill and sent a letter to Walker supporting the legislation. State records also show the Vehicle Recycling Board supported the measure. However Howlett and his aides contend he never supported the legislation.

Since the disclosures, Howlett said he will resign from the Sun Steel post if he is elected governor.

Ronald Stackler, a Democratic candidate for attorney general, has called on Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott to file suit against Howlett attempting to force him to turn over his steel company earnings to the state.

SCOTT ISSUED a one paragraph statement Tuesday stating he would appoint a special prosecutor to see if the state has a right to sue Howlett to recover the money.

Howlett worked for Sun Steel as a vice president from 1952 until 1960, when he was elected state auditor. According to the official biography he released to the press, Howlett does not reveal that after 1960 he still worked for the company.

Howlett said his state ethics statements, which have been required since 1972, disclose he receives funds from the company.

A check of state records show neither Sun nor Kaplan have held any state contracts in the past four years.

Daley challenges validity of Howlett press stories

by United Press International

Mayor Richard J. Daley, obviously angered by press stories on Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett's outside job, said Tuesday that reporters "get a little high" on liquor and write things that aren't true.

Daley made the remark to a group of reporters following a meeting of the Cook County Democratic Central Committee. He did not specify whom he had in mind or what evidence he had.

Daley, questioned about the job Tuesday, said, "I think it's plain and evident there is no secret about it, because he displayed it every year in his ethics report. I think they're trying to capitalize on something everyone should know . . . they're trying to make a mountain out of a mole."

THE MAYOR grew angry when asked whether it would be wrong for Howlett to take a stand on legislation affecting Sun Steel.

"I don't think there's any evidence that he did," Daley said. "I think it's the allegations that we receive constantly from the journalistic world — that they get a few drinks, they get a little high and they write a lot of things that aren't true.

"It's never been proven that he was interested in legislation."

Howlett, who attended the Democratic Central Committee meeting with Daley Tuesday, strongly denied ever discussing the bill with Rock.

"Rock ought to find out what he's talking about because he doesn't know," Howlett said angrily.

HOWLETT ALSO said he will announce "in a few days" whether he plans to quit the Sun Steel job. And he said he shortly will make public information on his personal finances.

Daley, in defending Howlett, told reporters they should find out who made financial contributions to Walker during his 1972 campaign. Walker has consistently refused to disclose the information, although he is asked about it regularly at news conferences.

"What are you doing, gentlemen?" Daley asked. "What are you doing? You're trying to make an issue out of nothing. Why don't you talk about the '72 contributions to the governor . . . Why talk about something that has been disclosed?"

Remember when we worried sick about freights blocking our rescue trips?

The almanac

(by United Press International)

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 4, the 35th day of 1976 with 331 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and the first quarter.

The morning star is Venus.

The evening stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aquarius.

Famed American transatlantic flyer Charles A. Lindbergh was born Feb. 4, 1902. Actress Ida Lupino was born on this date in 1918.

On this day in history:

• In 1901, Maj. William Gorgas launched a U.S. Army campaign to wipe out yellow fever in Cuba.

• In 1938, Adolf Hitler seized control of the German army and put Nazi officers in key posts as part of a plan, which was to cause World War II.

• In 1948, Ceylon became a free and self-governing dominion of Great Britain.

• In 1974, a terrorist bomb killed 11 persons aboard a bus passing through Yorkshire in England.

A thought for the day: American author Mark Twain (Samuel Clemens) said, "Truth is the most valuable thing we have. Let us economize it."

The way we see it

Overpass still an urgent need

Last week a Des Plaines ambulance sat at a blocked railroad crossing while en route to a fatal accident several blocks away.

The incident — repeated all too often in the city — underscores the urgent need for a railroad overpass on Des Plaines' west side.

The ambulance was delayed about three minutes by a freight train stalled on the Chicago and North Western Ry. outer belt tracks. Although the delay did not cause the accident victim's death it does point out the need for an access route that will not be blocked by trains.

In December, the City Council shelved plans for an underpass at the outer belt tracks and thereby postponed possible construction of an underpass for about six months.

Since then there has been no further council action on the project and the inconvenient and potentially dangerous situation continues to exist.

The fire department hopes to circumvent the problem when special electronic signaling devices are installed which will tell firemen when crossings are blocked and what direction trains are moving.

One alderman has proposed a single-lane overpass for emergency vehicles be built to allow access for police and fire department vehicles when tracks are blocked.

Although the emergency overpass would offer some relief, a full overpass or underpass is needed to end needless delays and emergency vehicles.

We have urged the council to select an overpass location and have suggested Oakton Street and the outer belt tracks as the best option available.

Whatever the location, an overpass is an obvious need. Some day a resident's life may depend on it.

'Three cheers for the swimmers!'

Thank you, Bob Gallas, for the very impressive article published in The Herald on Jan. 21. Your article clearly states the way we feel regarding the early morning practice hours for the Prospect High School swimming team.

We have been a resident of Mount Prospect for 16 years and we have always been involved in the superb programs this community has to offer, such as midget football, Little League baseball, park district swimming, etc. Now that our children have entered high school it seems that the swimming program has taken a back seat. We feel that the teenage years are the most important times of their lives and being involved in sports or any other activities is vital.

Our boys and girls are very fortunate to have had a man like Gil Fennie to keep them interested in the swim program since this sport is so individually competitive. This is why we are so disappointed to see the enrollment so small in the freshman class and the upper classmen dropping out because of the early morning practice hours.

Prospect's swimming couch, Paul Reefe, joined Prospect's staff last year and it is evident that his capabilities and talents are noticed in the past and present records. He has a marvelous understanding of students at this grade level and his experience and knowledge of swimming is an asset to our team. It would be our loss if this man would decide to go elsewhere.

Prospect High School is a proud school and we all love a champion, whether it be in swimming, football, track, volleyball or any other activities.

Isn't it important for students to be involved and to participate as a team? Isn't self-achievement and pride what it's all about?

Where'd judge go?

I think that all Democrats and independents should be upset that a member of the legal profession has written letters to many newspapers and members of the bar implying by omission of his name that Associate Judge Leonard Brody is not seeking a higher office, that of Circuit Court Judge for Lake and McHenry Counties.

Judge Brody is the senior Associate Judge in the circuit and is without question one of the finest, most honest, and talented legal minds to hold the office here of Associate Judge. I think he deserves to go higher.

Why was his name left out? The answer is hard to figure but it is known that I believe — and so do others — that if Judge Brody wins the primary March 16 he has a good chance to win in the general election while his primary opponent has practically no chance of winning in November.

Criticizes hospital

The brochure delivered in The Herald concerning Northwest Community Hospital's fund-raising drive does not tell all the facts concerning the operations of that hospital.

The regulations under which hospitals perform today violate the marriage contract, conceal records and procedures and violate the Constitutional rights of the people they profess to serve. Demanding authority that requires parents or married spouse to adopt the position of visitor or go somewhere else, in the search for medical care for their loved ones.

The malpractice problem discussed by Mr. MacCoun is an outgrowth of abusive use of authority. Malpractice suits are the only means left to the general public to voice their discontent. So complete is the power of the medical monopoly that they have convinced even the state legislature the only way to solve this problem is to deny our Constitutional right to redress of grievance.

Our community does, indeed, need medical facilities. But let us realize what role medicine plays in our social problems, and the degree of subjugation hospitals require to obtain medical care.

'Ford's done a good job'

President Ford is a good, honest, competent man and should be elected.

In a letter in the Jan. 26 Herald, Bill Heffernan discussed Ford's qualities and hit the nail on the head when he said, "He's the first President in a long time who has consistently tried to hold down inflationary government spending and to decrease government interference in the lives of the people."

Over-all, with the mess he inherited, President Ford has done a good job. Reagan doubled the taxes in California when he was governor. Some conservative he was.

Illinois needs plan to recycle motor oil

Recycling motor oil has proved to be a worthwhile program in Des Plaines; it's time to consider making it mandatory for the rest of Illinois.

Des Plaines presently is one of three Chicago-area suburbs which use experimental recycling stations to which local residents can contribute their used motor oil.

Now, the Illinois Dept. of Business and Economic Development is collecting statistics on the program. That information will serve as the basis for legislation.

Each year about 22 million gallons of motor oil — enough to fill a small lake — are sold in Illinois, but only a comparative thimbleful — 50,000 gallons — are recycled.

There's no chemical reason that used motor oil can't be reused, so we believe the General Assembly should throw its weight behind a statewide program. Our declining natural resources give us little choice but to conserve and reuse all of our resources whenever possible.

Outside auditor: a basic county reform

Cook County's government plans to spend $172 million this year, but as County Comr. Mary McDonald pointed out recently, much of that money is spent without outside audit.

Mrs. McDonald asked why an outside audit firm has not been hired to review the county's books, or at least to review the work of the county's internal auditor who is appointed by County Board Pres. George Dunne.

She said the outside audit would provide protection both for commissioners and for the public. And she's right.

The county treasurer and a few other county offices hire outside auditors and some county programs are audited by the federal government. However, there is no overall check on the county except by the internal auditor, who owes his job to Dunne.

An outside audit of the county's books seems like an elementary step toward good government. The county board should heed Mrs. McDonald's suggestion.

Job attitude called vital

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of interviews on topics of significance with authorities from various academic fields.

by TOM WELLMAN

If you're considering a job in business or industry, your attitudes towards the field are just as important as the skills you need for the job.

That in a capsule is the philosophy of Donald Sedik, who'd like to get Harper College students to know themselves and the real function of business before they seek a permanent job.

Sedik, an associate professor of business at Harper, preaches and teaches this philosophy of preparation and self-understanding in an introductory business course at the Palatine community college.

"Students need a frame of reference on business, why it exists, why it fails," he says. "The academic world can't teach only the basics, it must touch on attitudes."

Students today are confused about the business field, he says, in part due to the recession and the business-related scandals of recent years. In past years, there have been business leaders to look up to; today, they are hard to find, he says.

To offer his students a good look at what the business world is really like, Sedik has scheduled a number of high-level executives, from such firms as United Airlines and Motorola, to speak to his classes.

The program, which was initiated by businessmen working with the college's administration, is designed to bring students "face to face with people they'd never come in contact with, even in the course of an average business career," Sedik says.

The goal of the program is to teach the Harper students that business is not a faceless, monolithic monster. Rather, "it is made up of individuals facing decisions which, they think, are best for them and the future," says Sedik. "We hope to give the students a better insight into what executives feel about getting a job."

Sedik became interested in this approach in the late 1960s, when he left his job in marketing and product research to go into teaching. He says he "saw people in industry who weren't really achieving the kind of satisfaction or level of compensation they were capable of."

Sedik faces an occasional question about the morality of business practices. His philosophy is, "We can't answer (questions of) morality"; the forces of economic competition in the world may tend to make illegal acts in this country a relative matter and not necessarily the black-and-white problem they are sometimes considered.

This program of teaching attitudes is designed to extend beyond Harper's classrooms. Sedik sees three added phases, including mini-seminars at the local high schools, programs for other post-secondary students and the return of many Harper faculty members to the business world so they can return to the classroom with a better picture of current job needs.

DONALD SEDIK

But his immediate concern is for Harper students considering a career in business. For such students, Sedik offers a three-point plan of advice:

• "Gain an understanding of yourself, what you like and don't like." He encourages students to consider carefully their own attitudes towards the field they are about to enter.

• "Most students are not aware of the alternatives available in other vocational fields," he says. He encourages them to consider those alternatives.

• "You're doing yourself and the company a disservice" if you remain in an unpleasant and unrewarding job, Sedik says.

Enrollment in Sedik's course is 40 per cent higher than it was a year ago. There are 700 students in the course, half of which are full-time students. Sedik says the class ranges from older women who memorize the textbook to young students about to enter a business career.

"People recognize that a broader understanding will help them now or later," Sedik says, and he applies that idea both to first-time students and to persons who are taking the course to get a better insight into their present job.

Sedik doesn't criticize the teaching of the technical aspects — the terminology and the concepts — of business, for he realizes they are vital to anyone about to enter a career.

But attitudes are of critical importance, too, for both the success of American business and the worker of the future. Without an understanding of how business really works — and a person's attitude towards it — it'll be difficult to achieve that success, he says.

Camp Napowan sale angers Scouts

Mike Klein's people

American kids go to camp. They sit around fires at night, boil corn in pots, study leaves, sharpen knives, tie fancy knots, fish for their dinner and learn the differences between herbs and nuts.

Sometimes, American kids even obtain first hand knowledge of how to cope with snake bites, mosquitos, poison ivy, chiggers and overturned canoes. And they provide a wonderful income for those grown-ups who manufacture sleeping bags.

It's an altogether wonderful way to go for everyone.

Bob Furniss figures he's been lucky. Bob was a counselor last summer at Boy Scout Camp Napowan in Wild Rose, Wis., almost equidistant between Oshkosh and Wisconsin Rapids in central regions of the dairy prairie.

That work was an experience Bob would not trade and which he planned to continue after being graduated from Rolling Meadows High School this spring.

"WHEN A KID goes to camp, he matures," Bob said Tuesday morning. "Getting away from parents, he has to make his own decisions."

Bob said that without his counselor work, "I would have lost some of the maturity I think I've gained, the ability to make decisions, the ability for leadership and a knowledge of the outdoors."

Money never was the object for Bob during his counselor work. "It comes to less than 50 cents per hour," Bob said. "It's just fun being there."

Bob is wondering now if he'll get anyplace near Napowan next summer. Its days as a Boy Scouts of America summer camp appear to be sadly diminshed.

Bob, a member in the Order of the Arrow honor Scout group, learned two weeks ago that the Northwest Suburban Council might sell his beloved 313-acre Camp Napowan.

THAT MADE him angry. "We, the young men of the organization, decided we'd do something," Bob said.

So the young scouts circulated 500 petitions, seeking thousands of signatures, and began working to raise $10,000 in hopes that Napowan can reopen next summer.

Scouts huddled with their adult leaders and came away surprised to learn the issue has been stuck behind closed doors.

"Nobody really heard about it until we started our campaign," Bob said.

The scouts will collect their petitions and money this evening. And at 7:30 p.m., Thursday night, they'll face off against the 56-member Northwest Suburban Council Executive Board.

A hearing has been scheduled at Union Oil of California's corporate offices on Golf Road just across from the Woodfield Shopping Center.

SCOUTS AND their leaders will state that Napowan is the most accessible camp site for thousands of Northwest Suburban youths.

And the Board will argue that Camp Namekagon, a 1,165-acre site in northwestern Wisconsin, is a much finer choice for long range growth.

Then scouters will counter that Namekagon is just too far away, far more than 400 miles . . . an 8-hour journey no matter how it's driven.

They'll also insist that Namekagon is a lesser facility because it has no dining room . . . as does Napowan.

The Board will say there are plenty of dining rooms at camp sites owned by other Scout Councils.

But scouters will ask, what about finding enough fathers willing to act as chaperones for split weeks? How many will want to drive eight hours Tuesday night so they can be at work Wednesday morning?

AND IT WILL go back and forth until a sufficient amount of agitation has developed.

As with all service agencies, there's really just one issue at stake. It's down there at the bottom line . . . $$$$$.

The Northwest Suburban Council could gain approximately $200,000 from selling Camp Napowan, according to its president, Roger Klich.

"The opportunity came to sell Napowah," Klich said. "That's where we've got the offer and offers don't develop overnight."

There have been problems with financing two Wisconsin summer camps. Klich said the Northwest Suburban council is being saddled with new dairy prairie state taxes plus very expensive sanitation regulations.

HE SAID any prospective sale remains "an open question," but pointed out new roads, latrines and shower houses could be constructed at Namekagon if Napowan is sold.

And Klich forecast a brighter future for Camp Lakota, the council's 160-acre weekend retreat near Woodstock.

None of which will be much consolation to Bob Furniss, our camp counselor from Napowan. He's still hopeful that Napowan can be saved.

"When I first heard this, I thought it was a foregone conclusion they'd sell," Bob said. "Now that I've talked with some adults, I'd say 90 per cent are opposed to selling. Right now, it looks pretty good."

But dear, old Camp Napowan could have seen its last days as a place where young men teach others how to paddle canoes and avoid chiggers.

This is not a Build-Better-Young-Men decision. It's a business problem.

As Northwest Suburban Counsil Scout executive Art Allen said regarding Thursday night's meeting, "Lots of Scouters will learn things they never knew before."

They might even want to tie some knots when it's all said and done.

Hospital offers discount to low-income mothers

Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, is offering reduced cost maternity care to expectant mothers with limited income and no health insurance.

A discount of approximately 25 per cent is available for an expectant mother who has a normal delivery and is hospitalized for three days, including the day of delivery.

To be eligible, a woman must have a family income of less than $12,000 a year and be without health insurance or other third-party payer. In addition, a member of Holy Family's maternity department who has agreed to participate in the program must be the expectant mother's physician.

THE NEW PROGRAM called "LIFE") (Limited Income Family Effort) is intended to meet a community need and "encourage people to come to our hospital," explained Donald G. Loftus, vice president of operations at Holy Family Hospital.

Pregnant women who participate in the program will receive uniform health care during their pregnancy, delivery and post partum stay and a follow up visit six weeks after delivery. Prenatal instruction and classes are included as well as nursery facilities for the baby.

Loftus said the per cent of savings will vary according to the total cost of the woman's hospitalization. "There aren't two cases that will be alike. It all depends on the individual," he said. In general, the LIFE program will save about 25 per cent on maternity costs, he said.

Expectant mothers interested in the program are asked to contact Holy Family early in their pregnancy. Additional information is available from the hospital's out-patient department, 297-1800, ext. 1020, from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Plenty of help available for taxpayers

No rebates this year, but there are more tax credits

Income tax rebates are out, but tax credits are in as part of the 1975 federal income tax law changes.

The rebate plan of last year, which returned $1.7 billion in payments up to $200 to 13.7 million taxpayers, was not reenacted by Congress.

New tax credits available this year include:

• A personal exemption credit of $30 for all taxpayers and the taxpayer's dependents. The credit does not extend to exemptions for age or blindness. A married couple, with two children, will receive a credit, if claimed, of $120 on a joint return in 1975.

• A new housing credit. Taxpayers who purchased a newly constructed home in 1975 can claim credit of 5 per cent of the purchase price up to $2,000. Requirements for the exemption include occupancy of the home between March 12, 1975 and Jan. 1, 1977, use of the home as a principal residence and certification by the seller that the purchase price is the lowest price offered by the seller after Feb. 28, 1975.

• The investment tax credit which increased from 7 to 10 per cent in 1975. Businessmen or farmers can claim the credit for qualified investments in business-related property.

• Earned income credits. Low income families also benefit from additional earned income credits. The changes apply to taxpayers with dependents and income less than $8,000. Maximum credit is 10 per cent of the worker's first $4,000 earned or $400.

In addition to the increase in tax credits, 1975 income tax laws include other key changes that can reduce taxes.

Self-employed persons or employes not in a pension plan who started retirement programs in 1975 can deduct contributions to the program from gross income. Ceilings for the amount of contributions and deductions vary with the type of program.

Taxpayers who use the standard deduction will find an increased ceiling in 1975. The deduction has increased from 15 per cent of adjusted gross income, or $2,000, to 16 per cent of adjusted gross income, or $2,600 for married persons and $2,300 for single persons.

The low-income allowance also has been raised. Revised tax tables reflect the change and now include a ceiling of $15,000. Filing requirements also have changed. Last year, a single taxpayer was required to file if earnings were $2,050 or more; this year the filing level is $2,350.

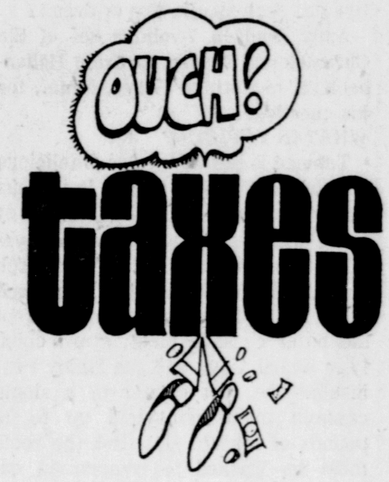
This is an election year and the tax credit for contributions to political candidates has increased from $25 to $50 per taxpayer (or from $50 to $100 on a joint return). The maximum deduction for contributions is $100 ($200 on a joint return).

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Taxpayers, you are not forgotten.

Presidents and poets idolize you. And when it comes time to fill out those pesky tax forms, the Internal Revenue Service and state revenue department stand ready to help. Tax consultants, from free lancers to employes of large tax firms, will offer you counsel for a fee.

April 15 is the deadline for turning in your tax returns unless you have an approved extension. The IRS estimates more than 3.5 million Chicago area residents will mail in returns.



WALK-IN assistance is offered to taxpayers at 16 Chicago area IRS centers. The nearest office is located at 4849 Golf Rd., Skokie. Come in Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., the agency said. The largest area IRS office is on the 18th floor of the Federal building, 230 S. Dearborn, Chicago, open the same hours.

Two popular IRS telephone numbers are (toll free) 800-972-5400 and (local) 435-1040. The "1040" is easy to remember, a touch of IRS humor.

More than 100 operators sit at the IRS telephones to answer income tax questions. The operators are connected to an IRS computer in Kansas City for researching tax problems.

A word of warning. Don't call Monday. "Monday is our busiest day," an IRS spokesman told The Herald. "People study their tax information over the weekend and then deluge us with questions on Monday."

Between 15,000 and 20,000 calls jam IRS switchboards during busy, tax season days. More than 1 million calls were reported last year.

THE IRS URGES taxpayers to file returns early. Refunds are mailed from the Kansas City processing center, which checks returns from Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri and Iowa. Processing time is four weeks during February, but eight weeks is the mailing estimate for near-deadline tax filing.

The Kansas City tax center works through two peak return periods a year. In 1975, more than 390,000 returns from Chicago were received the week that ended Feb. 14. The largest return week was April 18 with 463,000 returns.

"Any type of error" such as a missing address, social security number or signature can delay a refund or require return of the tax forms, the IRS spokesman said. "Double check everything!"

Information provided to taxpayers by the IRS is not guaranteed. "We're human too," the spokesman said.

The taxpayer assistance programs in Skokie and the federal building are "technically supposed to be self-help," an IRS agent said last week. "But, we do prepare complete returns for old people and other people with special problems."

TAXPAYERS CAN receive help from the Illinois Revenue Dept. for state tax questions. Cook County residents should call 641-2150 in Chicago. The toll free number for all Illinois residents is 800-252-8972. Call Monday through Friday, 8 .m. to 5 p.m.

Tax firms, like H&R Block, Inc., and Beneficial Finance Companies also prepare tax returns. At H&R Block, the preparation fee is determined by the number of forms filed as part of the return. The base price is about $8 and the average total cost is about $18, said Guy Scalzitti of Arlington Heights, an H&R Block employe.

"Dig out all your receipts, items of income, of interest and of dividends before you come in," Scalzitti said. "Some people who file early come back later because they forgot something and then pay an additional fee for recomputation."

H&R Block will send an employe with a taxpayer who is audited by the IRS after the firm prepares the taxpayer's income tax. "We're not responsible for information given to us. If there's a math error, we will be responsible for the (penalty) interest," Scalzitti said.

BEWARE OF incomplete tax returns, information written in pencil and inaccurate reporting of deductions or wages by tax preparers, the IRS warns.

"Always go to a preparer you know and who has a good reputation," an IRS spokesman said. "And recheck the return."

IRS cautions include:

• A check of exemptions claimed;

• An inspection of W-2 forms to see if listed income matches reported income;

• A check to determine if the tax consultant signed the return with his or her name and address.

Never sign a blank tax form, the IRS spokesman said. And, never order mailing of a refund check to the tax consultant.

Dow gains only 1.26 points

Stock prices higher after rally

NEW YORK (UPI) — Strong buying interests overcame persistent blue-chip profit takers in a late rally Tuesday to drive prices higher in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Observers said investors were encouraged that fourth quarter corporate profits indicated the economy may be moving again and should produce favorable first quarter results. But profit taking from the record January runup made significant advances difficult.

The Dow Jones industrial average rallied to gain 1.26 points to 972.61. It had been off around a point at the outset, up nearly two before noon, and off more than five points in the early afternoon. The blue-chip average, a 3.93-point loser Monday, climbed a record 122.87 points in January.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 0.31 to 101.18, a 1975-76 high, and the average price of an NYSE common share increased by 14 cents. Advances topped declines, 978 to 557, among the 1,906 issues crossing the tape.

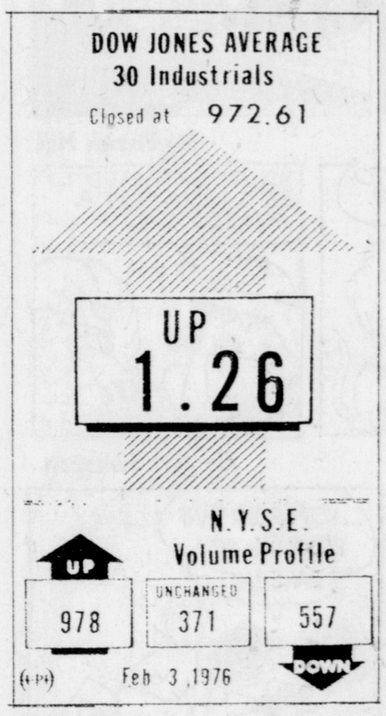
VOLUME TOTALED 33,080,000 shares, up from the 24,000,000 traded in Monday's session which was cut 75 minutes because of an ice and snow storm in the New York City area.

Superior Oil, which one analyst said has "enormous natural gas reserves," soared 16 points to 191½ after a delayed opening. Mountain Fuel Supply climbed 4 to 36 5/8. Coastal States Gas was the second most active Big Board issue, up 1 3/8 to 13¼ on 383,400 shares.

Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, which had substantial earnings in 1975, topped the Big Board actives, gaining 1 to 25 3/8 on 408,900 shares. The company should benefit from the record volume on the NYSE during the past month.

Westinghouse Electric ex-dividend was the third most active issue, up 1 1/8 to 16½ on 360,900 shares.

Prices closed higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex common share increased five cents. Volume totaled 3,860,000 shares, compared with 3,160,000 traded Monday.



Job opportunities poor due to election year jitters

Economic uncertainty in an election year accounts for the stable but poor employment outlook, said Gary Scott, Northern Illinois University's director of career planning and placement.

"There appears to be much emotional reluctance on the part of business and industry to increase hiring and recruiting when economic policies could change after a Presidential election," Scott said. hiring increases will come later in the year if business sees the economic recovery as a permanent situation, he said.

Accounting, computer science and the health professions will experience an increase in available jobs, Scott said. He cited the annual employment report by Frank Endicott of Northwestern University. The report indicates that college graduates who have a technical undergraduate degree or a master's degree in business administration should fare well in the 1976 job market.

Income—state's best '75 tax source

Income taxes surpassed general sales taxes as the most important source of state tax dollars for the third straight year, the Commerce Clearing House agency said.

Income taxes provided the best source of revenue in 19 states in fiscal 1975. General sales and gross receipts taxes topped the list in 29 states and severance and motor fuel taxes ranked No. 1 in Louisiana and New Hampshire.

Total state tax collections jumped to $80.1 billion in fiscal 1975 — an 8 per cent increase over the $74.2 billion of fiscal 1974. Individual income tax collections rose 10.2 per cent to $18.8 billion, while corporate income tax revenue jumped 10.4 per cent to $6.6 billion. Together, they account for almost a third of all state tax collections.

General sales and gross receipts tax revenue rose 9.6 per cent to $24.8 billion. Severance tax receipts rose 38.7 per cent; receipts were up from taxes on tobacco products (1.1 per cent), motor fuels (0.6 per cent), alcoholic beverages (2.5 per cent), property tax receipts (11.5 per cent), while death and gift tax collections declined .5 per cent, respectively.

More than half of all state tax revenue was collected in eight states in fiscal 1975. California collected the largest sum, $9.6 billion. New York was second with $8.9 billion. Pennsylvania garnered $4.7 billion; Illinois $4.4 billion; Texas, $3.6 billion; Michigan, $3.5 billion; Ohio, $3 billion; and Florida, $2.8 billion.

Best Sources of State Revenue in Fiscal 1975

SALES AND GROSS receipts taxes proved the best source of income for the state of Illinois in 1975, a Commerce Clearing House chart shows.

Ask Andy

Electricity is like water in hose

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Joe Descans, 11, of San Diego, Calif., for his question:
HOW DO LIGHT BULBS LIGHT?

Long, long ago people told stories of magical genies who lived in lamps. If you were lucky enough to come across one of these lamps, and rubbed it just so, the genie would pop out and give you three wishes. In our modern times we, too, have a magical genie — we call him electricity. Like the genies of old, he also lives in a lamp, but we call his home a light bulb, and he can turn night into day.

There are many different kinds of electric light bulbs. A flashbulb give us lots of light for a brief moment. The mercury-vapor lamp that lines exist and entrances of many streets and freeways is another lamp that serves a specific purpose. The lights that turn night into day at a football or baseball game are filament flood lamps.

Since the kind of light bulbs we are most familiar with are the ones that light up our homes, let's spend our time talking about them. And to make them easier to understand, let's first see if we can compare them to something we really know something about — water in a hose.

Electrical current is something like water in a garden hose. The force of the water flowing through the hose is called water pressure. Electricity moves through a wire, and the force of its flow is called voltage. If you put a nozzle on the hose, or use a smaller hose, you increase the water pressure. To increase the flow of electricity, then, you use a thinner wire.

As everyone knows, water comes into a hose from a faucet and flows out the open end — electricity does not. Electricity flows continuously only in a complete circuit. It is doomed to travel in circles, from a positive to a negative pole. If you break the circuit, the electrical current stops flowing.

Every time you flip the light switch, you complete an electrical circuit and electricity flows. In a light bulb, the electric current flows into the bulb from a heavier wire. Inside the bulb it is forced through a much thinner wire, then out in another heavy wire. The thin wire inside the bulb is called the filament. As electricity passes through the filament, the pressure causes the wire to get hot. The thin wire becomes white hot and its glow gives us light.

If the flowing filament were exposed to ordinary air, it would burn up in a second. The trick then, is to get all the air out of a light bulb before it is sealed. This is done with the aid of a vacuum pump, and the ordinary air is replaced with a nonactive gas such as nitrogen or argon.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Craig Hollenbeck, 8, of Cottage Grove, Minn., for his question:
WHAT IS TAPIOCA?

Tapioca is best known as a delicious pudding that can be bought in various flavors already mixed or made at home with milk, eggs, sugar and vanilla. Tapioca is a popular food starch used in making puddings, soups and other foods. It is taken from the root the bitter cassava plant, grown chiefly in Brazil, Java and the Malay Peninsula. The root cluster of a single cassava plant can yield up to 10 pounds of starch. But first the roots must be washed to remove an extremely toxic acid called prussic acid, or hydrocyanic acid.

The roots are then reduced to a pulp and this mass is strained until all the moist, starchy particles are separated from the root fibers and set on hot iron plates to dry. While drying, the grains form the small, uneven, milky-white balls known as pearl tapioca.

There is a fine form, though, which does not require soaking before cooking. This is called quick-cooking tapioca. When tapioca is cooked it swells and thickens the liquid in which it is cooked. Tapioca pudding is a healthful food and easily digested. Many baby foods contain tapioca, and as a dessert it is a favorite with infants, children and grown-ups alike.

TV's 'Dark Victory' is no triumph

by JOAN HANAUER

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — It took Bette Davis to turn "Dark Victory" into a triumph, and they don't make actresses like that any more.

ABC-TV has updated and remade the 1939 movie, with Elizabeth Montgomery and Anthony Hopkins in the roles originated by Miss Davis and George Brent, for airing from 7 to 10 p.m. Thursday.

The story is an unabashed tearjerker, in which a young women with everyhing to live for is dying of a malignant brain tumor. But her last months are made happy by her love affair with her doctor, and by her own courage and fineness of spirit.

The saga began as a Broadway production in 1934, went on to become a Bette Davis vehicle, in which, incidentally, Humphrey Bogart had a supporting role, and was remade as a 1967 film, "Stolen Hours," starring Susan Hayward.

IN THIS VERSION the dying young woman is a television producer, and modern decor, architecture and styles prevail everywhere, including the hospital where the patient is tested by some futuristic-looking machines, one of which turns her upside down for X-rays.

The first problem the production runs into is length. Back when "Dark Victory" was born, movies ran approximately 90 minutes. This one runs in the neighborhood of two and a half hours, with another half hour taken up with commercials and assorted miscellany.

There just isn't enough plot to hang between the ads. Interest is high in the beginning as the heroine suffers the first symptoms of her disease and fights against seeking medical attention. She finally submits to a series of tests and learns she has six to eight months to live.

The dramatic level holds as her love affair with her doctor develops, but it sags badly after that while the audience waits for the other shoe to drop for the symptoms that mark the beginning of the end to appear.

"Dark Victory" wins a minor skirmish in the war against run-of-the-mill mediocrity on television, but it's no triumph. The moral may be that Bette Davis is a tough act to follow.

Soundest play for slam

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Bridge teacher, Sally Johnson of Westport, looked over the dummy happily. Not only had she reached a good slam, but the play she intended to adopt would be fine for teaching her advanced pupils.

She could try for seven. That would require a 3-3 club break and a 3-1 or 2-2 trump split. She hadn't bid seven so she discarded that line.

Then there was the simple line. Try to ruff two hearts. She would ruff one low and the last one high and be home safely against all 4-3 and some 5-2 heart breaks.

Then she found the best and winning line. She won the first diamond, cashed the king and ace of hearts, led a third heart and carefully discarded dummy's second diamond.

This loser-on-loser play enabled her to ruff her last diamond with one of dummy's low trumps and her last heart with dummy's ace of trumps and make her contract.

Of course, it would have failed if diamonds broke 8-1 but 8-1 breaks are most unlikely while 5-2 breaks occur some 30 per cent of the time.

Mosquito Electronics

by Ed Landwehr

You can buy a small pocket-sized electronic device that emits a high-pitched sound wave of about 23 kilohertz. This is the same sound emitted by the male and shunned by all female, egg-carrying mosquitos, the only ones that bite your skin. The range is about ten feet. Reports denote that a few people with acute hearing might be bothered by the waves. Animals and pets are not affected. They're even working on a similar device for termites and cockroaches.

Being electronic servicers at Landwehr's TV & Appliance Center, maybe we'll include servicing on this contrivance. Of course, TV and radio are our main craft. Phone 255-0700 for any of these services, or bring them to our shop at 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights.

And while you're here, you can browse our displays of nationally advertised TVs and stereos. Maybe we'll even stock a few of those mosquito gizmos.

Report from Philip Morris

Tar/Taste Theory Exploded.

New 9 mg. tar MERIT with 'Enriched Flavor'™ proves taste no longer depends on amount of tar.

Until now, cigarette flavor pretty much depended on the amount of tar that went along with it.

Regardless of "low tar, good taste" claims, regardless of fancy filters and "space-age" filtering systems—you couldn't get high taste without high tar.

Nor low tar without low taste.

That was the theory.

Until now.

This is another report on MERIT from Philip Morris.

If you smoke, you'll be interested.

Low Tar, Good Taste: Filters Fall Short

At first, we tried designing special filters, too. Like others, our results were generally disappointing.

These results confirmed a belief that if there was any way to get flavor—real flavor—into a low tar cigarette, the answer had to lie somewhere in the tobacco itself.

So we focused on the business end of smoking. The tobacco end. And decided if we wanted to get more flavor through to you, we'd just have to start with more.

After a twelve year effort, our Richmond Research Center succeeded. They isolated the "key" flavor ingredients of tobacco as they exist in cigarette smoke.

By adding only those natural ingredients of extreme high quality as flavor contributors, yet low tar producing as well, they were able to pack MERIT with 'Enriched Flavor'—without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

'Enriched Flavor.' It's extra flavor. Natural flavor. Flavor that can't burn out, can't drop out, can't do anything but come through for you.

Read the taste-test results for yourself.

Taste-Tested By People Like You

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading low tar brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of filter smokers were involved, smokers like yourself, tested at home.*

The results were conclusive.

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar than MERIT, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly too, delivering as much —or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now you've got the cigarette.

MERIT. Incredible smoking pleasure at one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today—only 9 mg. tar.

Pet rocks, a promotion that really sold

Speaking of...

by Kay Marsh

You've seen it on television. You've read about it in newspapers and magazines. Maybe you've even been to a special show for it in a Chicago suburb.

"It," of course, is the pet rock, one of the most amazing success stories in recent retailing history.

It was heavily promoted in the holiday season. As one retailer advertised, "Be the first to give . . . or get! . . . the most loving, faithful, obedient, un-demanding pet the world has ever known! . . . the pet rock . . . . No expensive care or feeding is required for your pet rock. It will sit, stand, heel, roll over, play dead, fetch, take a nap, or lie watchfully in the dark awaiting prowlers . . . It's the most desirable of all pets . . . man's (or woman's) best friend."

I DON'T KNOW about man's or woman's best friend, but the pet rock has certainly been a rewarding friend to Rock Bottom Productions in Santa Clara, Calif.

The Wall Street Journal reported recently that the company figures it sold one million "Pet Rocks" in less than 90 days before Christmas, "not bad for a $4 item that consists of a small rock sitting on straw in a cardboard box plus an instruction booklet for the rock's care and training."

Rock Bottom Productions is now planning distribution in foreign markets, plus an offering of pet rock T-shirts and posters featuring caricatures of such "famous rocks" as Goldirocks.

Although the pet rock has been primarily an adult fad, it appeals to older children, too.

IN FACT, an 11-year-old friend made quite a hit with his own version at a neighborhood birthday party recently. He made a pet-carrying case out of a cardboard box and put a rock inside it. Then he added a birthday card, and tucked in three dollar bills "to buy food for your pet rock."

The fad has also resulted in numerous spin-offs and tie-ins, plus reams of copy and hours of television exposure.

At least one columnist has suggested a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Pet Rocks. A Michigan college recently planned an all-breed National Pet Rock Show, and there have been numerous smaller shows. One licensee of Rock Bottom Productions is starting to market a special shampoo "to give a pet rock a clean coat and prevent the frizzies," and rock salt is sold as food for pet rocks.

OTHER ASTUTE individuals and groups have offered to provide pedigrees and genealogies at a nominal fee.

You can, for instance, send your rock and $1 for return postage and handling to the National Water Well Association, 500 W. Wilson Bridge Rd., Worthington, Ohio, 43805. In return, the geologists there will send you a detailed genealogy for your pet rock.

They will also send you a vial of "precious underground water, similar to that which for millions of years . . . gave life-giving moisture to your pet before it ever saw the light of day."

The executive director of the association says that some pet rocks have been estimated to be more than two billion years old. He points out that many began as a molten mass deep below the earth's surface. Millions of years later they were finally thrust upward, after being contorted and compressed by the forces of impact between colliding continents.

"TORMENTED BY millions of years of exposure to wind, rain, snow and heat, many of our poor little friends were taken from their original homes and carried away by massive glaciers. Finally . . . these rocks were collected and sold to warm, friendly people who have given them a loving environment in which to spend the remaining millenia of their existence."

Considering the low maintenance costs and minimum upkeep, I guess we can afford to keep our pet rock through "millenia." Or at least through the thousand years of one millenium. Though $4 still seems like a considerable price for a plain old rock, even if it is more than two billion years old.

Who's Who mirrors social values

by MONICA WILCH PERIN

It arrived on one of those days when my ego was sagging a bit.

"I never get any recognition," I brooded as I opened my mail. And then, this letter began:

"It is my pleasure to inform you that your name has been brought to our attention for possible inclusion in the forthcoming edition of 'Who's Who of American Women.' "

Now even the most modest and level-headed person is bound to bask in such flattery, right?

But then I began discovering that many of my colleagues had also received this letter, and some had skeptically tossed it into the wastebasket. On more sober reflection, it did seem a bit odd that we relatively ordinary working women should be so honored. (Let's face it, no Katherine Grahams are we!)

The mystery deepened after I sent in the requested biographical information and received a second letter saying I had passed screening. This mailing contained a copy of the biography for my correction — along with an order form to purchase the $52.50 book for $42. A subsequent examination of the last edition of the book disclosed biographies of a number of professional women leading apparently ordinary lives.

So who is Who's Who and what are they up to?

WHO'S WHO OF American Women is put out by Marquis ("Mar-kwiss"), publisher of the prestigious Who's Who in America, founded in 1898.

In the late 1800s Chicago advertiser Albert Nelson Marquis had been freelancing biographical sketches of local personages to the Sunday supplements with great success. He decided there was an interest and need for a reference book on people, so in 1898 he published the first Who's Who in America, patterned after the British Who's Who, a reference work dating to 1842.

Since then, the Marquis reference library has grown to 43 books, including Who's Who of world and regions, professions, government, and history; official directories of medical specialists, consumer protection, environmental protection, registered lobbyists, publishing companies, federal libraries, and grant programs; and factbooks on education, National Science Foundation, and National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Most are the only book of the kind.

The Who's Who of American Women, initiated 20 years ago and published biannually, has the same essential purpose as the original Who's Who, according to Marquis president Kenneth H. Petchenik.

"They were never a social register. The intention was to provide information about people of whom others have an interest and may inquire."

Petchenik explained the operating procedures:

MARQUIS, LOCATED on East Ohio Street in Chicago, has a large research department which combs professional directories and "every imaginable source" to come up with names. Letters are then sent out inviting the individuals to fill out and return a biographical form.

"We are greatly dependent on people supplying the information about themselves," Petchenik said, explaining that "with the exception of a handful of people, we only publish those who want to be." Only in the case of "a public figure or extraordinarily important person" does Marquis put together a biography when the individual doesn't send one in.

Every book has its own "clear standards" by which applicants are screened, and about 50 per cent do not make it, Petchenik said. The standards, based on individual's reference value, are more stringent for Who's Who in America than Who's Who of American Women, he said.

For example, the America book might include among journalists the editors and publishers of the largest newspapers in the country, while the Women book might include a women's editor of a smaller paper, Petchenik said.

Who's Who of Women goes further down the ranks "because it's a more limited field. Many in the America book will also be in Women book, but the Women book can take a great many more. However, we try not to have double coverage among the books, except in the cases of very important people.

"We try to put a person in the book most appropriate for them."

AN INDEX TO ALL Marquis books can then be used to find out which book and which edition would cover a particular person.

As for length of time one is listed, Petchenik said Marquis has "altered our thinking on that in the last four years. It used to be a person was kept in a long time — as long as they continued to be important. We were forced to change that because of population growth and economics and because we want to get as many biographies on the record as possible.

"We have gone to a system where people go in for a couple of editions and then go out, but all data is then kept on a computer."

The computerization was made possible by the sale of Marquis to ITT in 1969, Petchenik said. And the computerization has made many new things possible. The company is presently considering the feasibility of expanding the reference utility of Who's Who by

MARQUIS PUBLISHES 43 different reference books, the most well-known bein the Who's Who series. Who's Who in America was the original book, published since 1898. Who's Who of American Women is in its 20th year of chronicling the careers of women.

Ex-smokers give tips on how to quit

by ROBIN FRAMES and MARK FUERST

(Ninth of 10 parts)

The following techniques for quitting smoking worked so well for certain individuals and groups that they wrote letters to the American Cancer Society and other organizations, telling about their good results.

• Try replacing that hot cigaret with a hot (spicy) drink. Tomato juice with Worcestershire sauce, pepper and other seasonings is excellent.

• You may find it difficult to make yourself stop smoking, but a number of ex-smokers found they could follow other self-imposed rules that make smoking quite a bother. For example, smoke only in a certain spot — one that is isolated, uncomfortable and devoid of amusements such as TV, books or food.

• Take a deep breath instead of a cigaret before answering the phone if you have that habit, suggests June Walzer, director of the American Cancer Society's New York withdrawal clinics. Holler if you're angry or learn a relaxing exercise if you're anxious, but don't grab a cigaret.

• Julius Fast, author of "How to Stop Smoking and Lose Weight," has a trick that has helped many "craving" smokers. Select a day on which you will definitely quit, and for a few days before smoke excessively. Double your intake until the entire process floods your system with nicotine and makes you sick and disgusted with cigarets. When the distaste for nicotine is at its height, quit.

Fast says the most successful results from this paradoxical technique are achieved when the smoker combines oversmoking with a complete removal from cigarets. Put yourself in a position, for the first week of withdrawal, where cigarets are difficult or impossible to get.

• If you want help in quitting, you don't have to join a formal group. Just telling your friends about your plans to give up the habit may be an incentive not to backslide.

• Let your family give you some sort of celebration, Fast suggests. You can even make failure to quit a financial punishment — make bets on your ability to stop and offer good odds.

• Most of us use only a small fraction of our capabilities in daily life. Give your full attention to each activity throughout the day, and make sure you are doing only what you really want to do. Smoking probably will be assigned a lower priority on your list of activities.

• Remember that there isn't one best way to quit. Tapering off your smoking may work best for you, but a number of heavy smokers have found that stopping cold, all at once, is less of a hassle.

SMOKING & YOU

• The first step in quitting successfully is proper motivation, Fast says. Discover what motivates you to smoke. Then build an even stronger motivation to stop. Be sure your decision is firm, your motivation solidly based.

• Sometimes the mere idea of giving up cigarets is more of a mental block than the act itself. Start by doing everything short of stopping: cut down, stop inhaling, change brands, switch to lower tar and nicotine, smoke less of each cigaret. You may find that changing your smoking habits is easier than you thought. Stopping could be just one more change.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Hormones useful in some arthritis

Will you please tell me the difference between cortisone and ACTH? I have taken both for arthritis and cortisone acts quicker, but ACTH lasts longer. How safe is it to take both?

ACTH is an abbreviation for adreno-corticotropic-hormone, the hormone from the pituitary gland under the brain that stimulates the adrenal cortex. The hormone from the adrenal cortex is cortisone. So ACTH stimulates your adrenal gland to produce cortisone. The end result is about the same as long as you have a healthy adrenal cortex that can respond to ACTH stimulation.

These hormones are useful in selected cases of arthritis, but they are not indicated in many other cases. They help relieve some of the problems from arthritis but do not cure it. Many people who take these medicines and feel great are misled because the disease may still be progressing in spite of how they feel.

Those who want information on rheumatoid arthritis can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, Number 4-11. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Did you know that you can remove a tick with Vasoline? I know because that is how I remove them from our dogs. One of my friend's daughters got one on her head and they could only get half of it out with tweezers so they took her to the doctor and he just put Vasoline on it and removed the rest. I have used it to remove both black and white ticks without any trouble.

It has been several months since I wrote a column on Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever and mentioned ticks. Since then I have received several letters suggesting ways of removing ticks.

As you recall, I pointed out that the preferred method was to grasp the tick by the head and chest with a pair of forceps and gently pull on the tick until it relaxed its jaws and was easily removed.

I also received a page from a hunting and fishing column recommending the time honored method of using a lighted cigarette or gasoline. Although this is widely believed, most medical authorities think this is unwise because of the possibility the tick may expel its infected contents into the bite while it is still in the agonal throws of death, thereby infecting the person. To the reader who sent me this column I can only say I base my recommendations on up-to-date available medical texts and not what I read in the fishing and hunting columns by non-medical writers. Good hunters and fishermen or those who write columns on these subjects are not necessarily health authorities. If you want health information, read the medical column. For hunting and fishing information, read that column.

Also a lady wrote to me about the treatment her folks used in Transylvania. They put a drop of oil on the tick head and he relaxed and was easily removed. Sounds like your treatment. I see no reason why you couldn't use this method if it works and if it causes the tick to relax his hold so he can be removed, it wouldn't be associated with the dangers of burning the tick.

Never-fail beef stew cooks gently in oven

Dear Dorothy: I love your simple recipes. Do you have one for stew that is made in the oven? It would be so nice not to have to watch something that is gently cooking in the oven.—Myra Adelson

Marjorie Yenawine gave me her recipe for stew years ago and it has never failed me. Put one and one-half pounds of cubed chuck in the bottom of a casserole. On top of that add one sliced onion, two sliced carrots, one cut-up rib of celery and one potato, cut in cubes then sliced thin. Sprinkle on a little course salt and a bit of monosodium glutamate (I happen to be a fan of this controversial seasoning), one half cup of seasoned tomato juice and a little pepper.

Cover and put into a 300-degree oven for two hours. At this time you can correct the seasoning. Put back into a 200-degree oven for another two hours. This type of cooking is something similar to crockery cooking so it will stay right even if left longer — with the oven turned off.

Dear Dorothy: I, too, would love to learn how to make my own "international" coffee, rather than buy the expensive brands. You had one made with chocolate and cinnamon and brewed regular style. I'd like one for "au lait" coffee and "mocha" coffee — either brewed regularly or using a mix with instant coffee. — Ann Hagan.

Like Carole Dal Pozzo, readers of this column are so innovative maybe some have figured out close substitutes to the store brands you mention. Volunteers?

Dear Dorothy: With regard to frosted pewter mugs, we keep two in the freezer at all times. Just pour the beverage in and it's ready to drink. Never wash in soap — always rinse with clear water. — Mrs. N. Holm, Jr.

Ladies' day sex discrimination

Women and children first

by Julie Martoccio

Girls, are you looking forward to spring and the baseball season, especially free ladies' days? Be prepared; there may no longer be free days simply because you are a woman. I guess you might say we can't have our rights without surrendering some of our privileges. That would be having it both ways, if we didn't.

I was in Tucson at the time of the Tucson Open Golf Tournament. (No I didn't attend. I'm not knocking it, but I'm not a golf enthusiast.) A minor storm cloud appeared on the rights scene and may spread to these and other parts of the country so I thought I should alert you.

A Tucson member of the American Civil Liberties Union decided that sponsors of the Tucson Open were guilty of sexual discrimination in permitting women to attend the annual sporting event free of charge. He filed his complaint with the Pima County Committee on Human Relations stating that he had to pay $6 the previous day while women were being admitted free as a Ladies' day promotion. He said that there was a city ordinance that prohibited "sexual discrimination in public accommodations" and that the open tournament fell within that definition.

And who is the person filing the complaint? A male member of N.O.W., THE National Organization for Women!

On the subject of women's rights let's be grateful that the following words, the opinion of a former President of the U.S. are no longer used as an argument against us.

"SENSIBLE AND responsible women do not want to vote. The relative positions to be assumed by men and women in working of our civilization were assigned long ago by a higher intelligence than ours." These archaic words were spoken as late as 1905 by exppresident Grover Cleveland. But lest we forget, it was an improvement over the attitude of a noted 18th century legal expert, William Blackstone, who stated, "By marriage the husband and wife are one person in law. The legal existence of the woman is suspended during her marriage."

On the question of rights, a female representative in the Arizona state legislature went beyond the separate ones of men and women and took a stand for the rights of both.

She publicly decried the fact that the state government is interfering with the personal behavior of adults and that legislators should "stay out of the bedroom."

SHE SAYS ARIZONA law and the state's proposed criminal code include "crazy, twisted sexual legislation designed to prevent people from violating the personal sexual biases of some legislators." In addition, she specifically pointed out one section which she says could lead to unforeseen consequences. The section prohibits "infamous crime against nature" which, she insists, is worded so broadly that it could be used for political harassment.

But her main stance is: state governments have no business dictating sexual behavior to consenting adults. The legislature apparently agreed with this argument because recently the Arizona Court of Appeals struck down the state's sodomy and lewd and lascivious act laws. They violate the "fundamental right to privacy between consenting adults," the court said.

The female legislator rather pointedly argued that if Arizona sex laws were enforced, three-fourths of its citizens would be behind bars. (One wonders how that figure was obtained, and by whom?)

Readers are invited to submit questions regarding legal problems of women and children. Names and facts that would identify the writer are withheld on request. Attorney Martoccio's column is to inform and not advise. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Arlington couple married 50 years

A year following their marriage in 1926, Louis and Louise Maierhofer started farming at Rand and Palatine Roads in Arlington Heights. Even after giving up the farm 20 years ago and moving into town, they still call Arlington Heights "home."

The farm is now the Ivy Hill section of the village, and the Maierhofers now live at 313 E. Hintz Rd.

Louis and Louise were married Jan. 16, 1926, in Niles Center, which is now called Skokie. Louis grew up there and Louise in nearby Glenview. They met at a party.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Maierhofer

THE MAIERHOFERS celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Jan. 17 at a dinner for 55 guests at Swedish Manor. After the feast, the party moved to the Maierhofer home for dancing and a midnight lunch.

Among the guests were the couple's children and their families, son Louis of Rolling Meadows and daughters Dorothy Johnson of Arlington Heights and Diane Schwind of Richmond, Ill. The anniversary pair have seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Both Louis and his wife are an active 72 years old. Since leaving the farm, he worked for an excavating company, then for Cook County and later for Wheeling Township as a truck driver. He retired in 1969.

It's smorgasbord time in Palatine

This year marks the 21st annual authentic Scandinavian smorgasbord prepared by the women of the First United Methodist Church of Palatine.

To be held Saturday, Feb. 21, in the church at 123 N. Plum Grove Rd., the dinner will feature an assortment of home-baked dishes including Swedish brown beans, meatballs, salmon, rice pudding with lingonberries, potato sausage and molded fish salads.

Authentic decorations gathered over the years will transform the church fellowship hall into a Scandinavian celebration. Costumed waitresses will serve from 5 to 7:30 p.m. at tables decked with handmade cookie trees, candles and topiaries.

Tickets at $4 for adults and $2 for children under 12 are on sale until Feb. 16. They are available at the church office, 359-1345. A supervised nursery will be provided.

Keep communication line open to teens

Keep the conversational lines open with your teenager, advises Beatrice H. Bagby, University of Illinois Extension child and family specialist.

As a rule, adolescents do not communicate very well. It is up to the parents to keep the lines open as much as they can.

When the youth is in a mood to talk, "be there and let him have the floor," she advises. "All too often, as soon as a youngster begins to open up, he is stopped cold by a lecture from his parents — he might not be saying what they want to hear."

THE TEENAGER MAY try to shock you with what he says. This usually happens just when you're proud about how good he is. He feels he must shock you to get off that pedestal, to make you look at him realistically. He is not really seeking a bad opinion of himself.

But he may get carried away and come out with a statement that knocks you flat. Try not to react with shock; what he says may not be entirely true. Before responding, take the time to decide quietly what you really want to do about what you have been told.

But what if your teen tells you nothing at all? Mrs. Bagby says he may not talk because he fears your authority but does not want to tell a lot of lies about his behavior. He may also be perfectly content to have you think he is a model of good conduct.

WHEN TALKING WITH a teen, it is very important that parents not hang a label on him, such as "delinquent," "thief," "lazy" or "maladjusted."

Remember that self-esteem is a crucial problem in adolescence. The youngster doesn't have much experience on which to measure his own worth and is extremely sensitive to things people say to him at home.

"Adolescents don't have a supply of self-esteem to keep them going when they are humiliated," she concludes. "They cannot easily handle an attack on their dignity or worth. If you tell a youth he is no good or lazy, he may believe it."

Nurses sponsor art auction

An art exhibit and auction is the next benefit event for Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Nurses Club. The date is Sunday, Feb. 15, in the fellowship hall of the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Prospect Heights.

Hors d'oeuvres will be served from 7 to 8 p.m., allowing guests to browse through an exhibit presented by the Gallery Art Center. There will be oils, watercolors, lithographs, prints and some sculpture.

Bidding begins promptly at 8. Proceeds will go into the club's scholarship fund which each year aids students in nursing careers.

Tickets are $2 and can be obtained from all club members. Further information is available at 299-0634.

Who's Who a mirror

producing some sort of cross reference, perhaps by profession or place of residence or school.

The Who's Who of American Women has been "a very popular book," according to Petchenik. It has grown from about 12,000 listings in the first edition to about 23,000 in the 10th edition, to be published in May 1977.

"OUR BOOKS mirror our society," Petchenik said, noting that the Women book has reflected the increases in the number of women in careers previously closed to them or difficult to enter.

Over the years the character of the books has changed, too, reflecting social values. For example, Petchenik pointed out, Marquis "wouldn't allow divorced persons or anyone in the advertising business to be listed," the latter being a peculiar exclusion of his own profession.

Has there been greater cynicism regarding the books in recent years?

"Among the uninformed, yes," Petchenik replied. He said Who's Who is often confused with other books that "have tried to capitalize on our popularity and are mostly produced to earn money."

For example, Marquis publishes no books on college students because it is felt they are of insufficient reference interest, but there are such listings and they are often assumed to be associated with Marquis' Who's Who.

As for who buys the books, it's mostly libraries, businesses, newspapers, publishers, etc., Petchenik said. Although many biographees are interested in owning their volume and thus it is offered, he said that is a minor portion of sales.

So, sisters, if you get a letter from Marquis, don't sell yourself short as an accomplished professional worthy of interest. Vanity isn't sending in your biography — it's buying the book!

For Arlington couple on medical mission

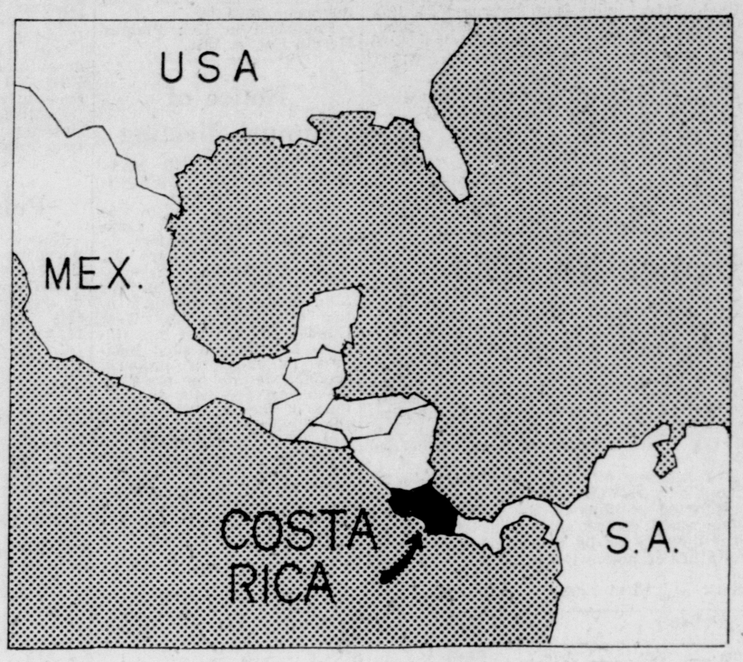
Trip to Costa Rica more than a vacation

by KURT BAER

Bracing the heads of campesinos in a steaming Central American jungle while a dentist pulls their teeth — as many as eight teeth from one mouth — may sound like a scenario for a nightmare to most Americans.

Hubert Carlson of Arlington Heights calls it his vacation.

There is nothing outwardly sadistic about the 45-year-old Carlson. Quite the contrary. He and his wife, Laurie, joined a medical mission this January into the villages of southern Costa Rica.



THEIR EXPERIENCE is the story of a poor and largely uneducated people's need for medical aid.

"Patients would come for treatment from a 50-mile radius. They would walk or ride horses because there are almost no cars. At 8 o'clock every morning they were lined up outside our building," Carlson recalled.

"Two doctors and the nurses would see about 100 patients a day. Typically, a mother would come in with her child because it had worms. Its stomach would be bloated and the child may have had diarrhea for two weeks."

Carlson is chairman of the accounting department at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. It was through the hospital's service league that he first heard about the Costa Rican medical mission called a Goodwill Caravan.

TODAY HIS operations are performed on ledger sheets, but Carlson went through college intending to be a dentist. In the village of Matapalo, Costa Rica, he witnessed a procession of dental cases that kept two doctors and three residents working assembly line fashion all day.

"The dentists would pull teeth all morning. One Saturday they pulled 200. I would help by holding the patient down, or holding the instruments — wherever the dentist needed another hand. All afternoon they drilled cavities," he said.

There is no running water or electricity in the village and the two high-speed dentist drills were powered by portable generators. The drills were the only electrical apparatus available to the dentists, Carlson aid, so that even routine dental functions like saliva suction had to be done by hand.

Patients were given local anaesthetic before their dental operations. Doctors gave out limited amounts of drugs to treat other illnesses. The cost of the Caravan's medical care is based upon the patient's ability to pay. But all the fees are nominal by U.S. standards. For example, most persons paid the equivalent of 50 cents for dental work.

MANY OF THE illnesses and bad teeth are the result of widespread poor nutrition, Carlson said. Although fresh fruit — oranges, bananas, grapefruit — is abundant in the area, the daily diet is black beans and rice for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

"Those villagers that have a cow will feed the milk to the pigs rather than the children." A popular mixture of brown sugar and water, homemade soda pop, devastates the teeth, he said.

The Goodwill Caravan is supported by the Costa Rican government, various hospitals and churches. The emphasis is on health care, but Carlson said the mission also attempts to provide spiritual counseling, family planning, agricultural assistance and other kinds of information during the one week it spends in a village.

"We tried to sell vegetable seeds for a penny a package — beans, radishes, things like that. But many people didn't know how to plant them. One women asked if she should bury the seeds a foot deep," Carlson said.

IN THE EVENINGS we would show movies — one religious film, a couple of educational films and a cartoon for the children. For most of them, it is the only chance they have to see a movie.

Carlson said he had an idea what he would encounter in the remote villages of Costa Rica. He visited Central America last July to assist in the opening of a 40-bed hospital. But his wife, Laurie, a trained nurse who worked with doctors on the Caravan, was not similarly prepared, he said.

Today Carlson speaks compassionately of the Costa Rican people and their need for medical care. And despite the primitive conditions in which they worked, neither he nor his wife found the experience unpleasant.

"The Caravan had made arrangements to work out of a school house in the village. The women nurses slept in a camper and the fellows slept on the floor of the school house," he explained.

CARLSON AND his wife stayed in a nearby house where they regularly encountered four-inch-long bed bugs, he said. "Five homes together in a cluster is a village. Up in the hills there are no roads, only paths where the people walk. In the morning when I got up you could see the people coming down from the hills."

The Caravan tries to return to a village every three or four months. Word of the mission's arrival is passed among the people, and even those who will have their teeth pulled that day are happy to see the medical team arrive, Carlson said. "They know that when all the teeth are gone, they'll have no more pain," he explained.

The Carlsons worked four days with the Caravan. The balance of their vacation was spent in Costa Rica's capital city San Jose. "The day we left the village people came out just to be around the cars. They waved and thanked us for coming. It gave us sort of a warm feeling," he recalled.

Keefe Fund game tonight at Prospect

Some are already calling it the Grudge Match of the Century, tonight's David Keefe Memorial Basketball Game at Prospect High School.

But they're playing the game because they care.

The game will feature a showdown between the Mid-Suburban North football coaches and the Mid-Suburban South grid coaches, in what promises to be a titanic struggle of muscle, cunning, bravado, and strong wills.

Sixty-one coaches from all levels of football at the 13 MSL schools will participate in the contest, which begins at 8 p.m. in the Prospect fieldhouse.

Dave Keefe

Admission is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students. Tickets are on sale at all MSL schools, the Mount Prospect State Bank, and the Bank and Trust of Arlington Heights. They will also be available at the door tonight before the game.

It's all for the most worthy cause imaginable.

Dave Keefe, the Prospect football coach, was struck down in his prime by cancer last New Year's Eve, leaving a wife and three children. The receipts from tonight's game will go toward his children's education.

"I consider it a privilege to play in this game," said one coach. "Dave Keefe was my friend — he was such a super guy."

The game will see the return to the court of such former area basketball stars as Don Crandall, Mike Frase and Fred Lussow. Lussow starred on the Prospect teams that compiled a 47-4 record from 1959 through 1961.

It will also highlight the antics of some players who have seldom set foot on the hardwood.

"I'll throw a few shots up there," said Hersey head coach Joe Gliwa, who guaranteed that the North's overwhelming size advantage would tilt the battle in their favor.

"They may have the size," said Schaumburg head coach Bob Ferguson, "but the South has the brains."

Ferguson will square off in one of the night's featured rivalries when he goes up against Fremd head coach Joe Samojedny. Ferguson and Samojedny were grid teammates at Westmar College in Iowa.

Following is a list of the players by school, with their uniform numbers in parentheses:

Arlington — Howard Feddema (25), Chuck Haines (33), Kim Markshausen (74); Buffalo Grove — Gary Bach (31), Grant Blaney (53), Mark Frase (43), Paul Grady (33), Tony Jungbrut (55), Dave O'Reilly (41), Dennis Riccio (25), Rich Roberts (45), Joe Scarpino (51); Fremd — Joe Samojedny (43), Walt Isaccson (53); Hersey — Joe Gliwa (53), Harvey Foster (52), Dick Fulk (55); Palatine — Don Cran-

XII Winter Olympics to open today in Innsbruck

INNSBRUCK — Pro football just finished its Super Bowl X in glittering Miami.

It's time for another Roman numeral.

Today, at approximately 3 p.m. Chicago time in this gracious old Austrian city, Josef Fiestmantl, a former luge-sled Gold medalist, will light the Olympic Flames to dramatically launch XII Winter Olympic Games.

The 12th Winter Games, last held in Innsbruck in 1964, will bring together 1,500 athletes from 37 nations in a spectacular show of sled, skate and ski events that is expected to attract 150,000 spectators.

In addition, millions will watch on television as ABC daily covers the highlights, starting at eight o'clock tonight.

Featured on the first day will be the opening ceremonies, men's downhill skiing, ice dancing and men's and women's luge.

The American delegation features 115 athletes, including 31 women, and women competitors have brought home the only United States gold medals from the past two Winter Olympics.

Four years ago, United States entries won only three Golds at Sapporo, Japan, all by women. In 1968 Peggy Fleming, in figure skating, collected the lone American Gold.

The top hopes for gold medals on the United States team appear to be 25-year-old Sheila Young, who will seek titles in three speed skating events — the 500, 1,000 and 1,500 meters.

Dorothy Hamill, another in a recent string of talented ladies figure skaters, is three-time U.S. champion but will have a rugged assignment in the Winter Olympics. Favored will be Dianne DeLeeuw, a resident of California who will skate for The Netherlands. Hamill is rated the best free style skater in the world, but must score well in the compulsories.

Another strong United States entry is Cindy Nelson, one of the top seeds in three Alpine events — the downhill, slalom and giant slalom.

Chicago area interest in the XII Winter Games will be focused on Leah Poulos of Northbrook, who has been speed skating since she was 7; Colleen O'Connor of Chicago and Jim Millns of Addison, ice dance entry; and David Santee of Park Ridge, men's figure skater who regularly works out at the Randhurst Twin Ice Arena in Mount Prospect.

Innsbruck has been involved in a three-year preparatory program for the Winter Games but mainly had to refurbish venues built for the 1964 edition. Except for the new Olympic Village, only one new facility had to be built, a combined bobsled and luge run constructed at a cost of $5 million.

The Winter Olympics will close on Sunday, Feb. 15, and the XXI Summer Olympics will open on Saturday, July 17 in Montreal.

STEVEN ALLEY of the United States raises his arms in jubilation Tuesday after scoring the second goal against Yugoslavian goalie Marjan Zbontar. Daniel Bolduc (21) of the U.S. team also helped out on the goal. The U.S. won, 8-4, assuring them a berth in the championship bracket for the Winter Olympic Games which start today in Innsbruck.

Hornacek, Elk Grove surprise Schaumburg

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Dave Hornacek tossed in 26 points and grabbed 11 rebounds as the Elk Grove Grenadiers put some itch in the Mid-Suburban League's South Division with a 56-48 win over Schaumburg.

The win was Elk Grove's 16th of the season and fifth in league play against three losses. The Grens' 16-4 record makes them the most successful basketball team in the school's history.

Schaumburg, with a 7-2 league slate, still holds a game and a half lead over the Greandiers.

"That's the whole story right there," said Elk Grove head coach Bill Parmentier, pointing with his cigar to the Grens' edge in turnovers.

"My guards have one thing to do and that's get the ball inside. They really did the job tonight."

Backcourt men Joe Parmentier and Mike Behm didn't score much but they excelled at beating the Schaumburg press and tossing the ball down low to Hornacek and Mark Smith, who was Elk Grove's other double figure scorer with 14.

Hornacek took personal control of the game in the second quarter when he scored 11 of his team's 13 points.

The explosion staked the Grens to a 26-20 half-time lead and they never trailed again.

Schaumburg had outrebounded the Grens in their first meeting and won the game by six points. Smith, who tore off seven rebounds, Mark Sass and Hornacek turned the tables this time around as the Grens held a 24-20 edge on the backboards.

Four free throws by Jon McIlraith, who finished with 11 points, midway through the second half clipped Elk Grove's lead to two but a free throw by Smith and a pair of hoops from Hornacek kept Schaumburg at arm's length and the Saxons got no closer than five points the rest of the way.

The Chmiel brothers, John and Ed, shared Schaumburg's scoring lead with 16 points each.

Parmentier summed up his team's league status with a shrug, 'We're still in it."

Conner's gone . . . who will rule?

Charlie Dickinson
Staff Sportswriter

Something very special is going to happen at the Illinos state gymnastics finals March 5-6 at Prospect High School.

Bart Conner is not going to win the all-around title.

When the best gymnasts from the best gymnastics state in the nation gather that weekend, the biggest news will be made by someone who won't even be present.

Conner, a 17-year-old senior at Niles West, is considered by many to be the best high school gymnast ever produced. He has traded his shoo-in lock on a third Illinois all-around title for a shot at the United States Olympic team.

While all that is going on, several gymnasts from the Chicago area will have a chance at the biggest bauble in high school gymnastics.

The last non-Conner champion was from the Mid-Suburban League. Rolling Meadows' Mike Godawa won the all-around in 1973.

The Mid-Suburban League is home this year for two performers, Danny Muenz of Hersey and Gene Christensen of Elk Grove, with the credentials to take the 1976 all-around championship.

"You can't find a harder worker anywhere," said Hersey coach Don Von Ebers of Muenz. "He stays longer in the gym and does more than anyone to improve."

Muenz has steadily pulled his all-around score up this year, hitting a tops of 8.21 in league competition.

"Danny's weakness is the side horse," Von Ebers said. "But he's a 7.5 there and solid eights everywhere else.

"We're changing his routines around to improve the amount of stability. From now on he'll be throwing multiple C routines on just about everything."

Muenz is thinking of following his brother Kevin to Southern Illinois University when he graduates. Kevin is the defending MSL all-aound champion, and the only performer capable of keeping the honor out of the Muenz family is Elk Grove's Christensen.

Christensen's league best is identical to Muenz' 8.21 and, like the Hersey ace, he is weakest on the side horse.

"With a good side horse routine Gene is capable of winning the whole thing," said Elk Grove's Fred Gaines.

"He could go as high as 8.4 or 8.5 in the all-around. If he misses on side horse he'll be in the sevens. Gene's been bothered by the flu and colds all season so he's been weak much of the time.

"Gene just keeps getting better," Gaines said. "He's got a good attitude and he's holding his moves in the meets like he should.

"He's got a real good shot since Bart's not in it."

Scores coming out of the West Suburban League have been almost dreamlike recently. Oak Park-River Forest shut down defending state champion Hinsdale Central in a dual meet Friday by the unreal score of 157.70 to 156.75.

Oak Park's all-around team of Don Osborn and Troy Chovan engineered that stunning win. Osborn averaged 8.35 and Chovan 7.85 but the best all-around score of the night went to Hinsdale Central's Breck Grigas at 8.50.

Amazingly, Grigas has missed much of the current season because of a broken leg. Side horse has been Grigas' stumbling block also, but his 8.1 average on that event would thrill most of the pommel horse specialists in the state.

"Breck's a very well-rounded gymnast," said Neil Krupicka, who will be trying to coach the Red Devils to their sixth state title in seven years.

"After his injury he came along very well in our conditioning program. Byt his all-around average is 8.42 right now and he's got a long way to go.

"He's three months behind and hasn't even tapped his potential. I think, without a doubt, he's the finest athlete I've ever coached."

Paul Omi describes his LaGrange-Lyons team, another West Suburban entry, as "a sleeping giant."

Jim Vokurka and Mark Williams are LaGrange's best all-arounders. Vokurka's ceiling has been 8.21 so far. Omi sees more in the future.

"Jim needs a little more strength," Omi said. "He still can't carry a move explosively. Both Vokurka and Williams have flip-flopped back and forth this year. Each of them can take the load if they need to."

From all appearances, the happiest all-arounder in the state is Maine South's "Smiling" Craig Martin.

The Hawks' senior finishes each and every routine with a big grin. And that's before the scores come in. When the judges are through it is head coach John Riccitelli's turn to smile.

"Craig is the hardest worker I've ever had," said Riccitelli, who is also one of the best judges in the state. "There can be a hundred things going on around him and Craig will ignore it all and work on what he needs to.

"As of now nobody has come out with a ranking for the all-arounders, but Craig beat most of them in the Maine East meet and I haven't seen anyone better than him in the meets I've judged."

There was no all-around champion computed at the Maine East Invitational but Martin won P-Bars and high bar and placed second on free exercise.

He's a solid 8.5 on every apparatus but the still rings, where he has been averaging 8.3.

"If Conner was in the state meet," Riccitelli said, "you couldn't find a better state meet than Illinois' anywhere. Bart symbolizes everything these kids are shooting for."

Von Ebers summed it up best.

"There are a lot of tough kids since Bart vacated the No. 1 spot. They could all be within a tenth of a point of each other.

"The state meet is it for these kids. It will all depend on who hits and who misses. Anybody could catch fire and win the all-around this year."

That's what makes it special.

Forest View captures girls' bowling title

Forest View's girls bowling team held off a strong bid by Rolling Meadows to win the Mid-Suburban League championship for the third straight year by a single point Tuesday night, 85½ to 84½.

Rolling Meadows, a 5½ to 3½ winner over Forest View in a match earlier in the season, came into the final meet of the season at Fair Lanes Rolling Meadows Bowl trailing by three points. The Mustangs defeated Hoffman Estates 8-1, but it wasn't enough.

Forest View stopped third-place finisher Buffalo Grove 6-3 to capture the crown. The winning Falcons were paced by Nancy Lachus, who turned in the top performance of the MSL season with a 574 series. She had games of 155, 218 and 201 en route to the outstanding series.

Also aiding in the crucial victory for the Falcons was Judy Pleickhardt. She rolled a 497 and showed consistency with games of 170, 166 and 161.

Making up the rest of the 'A' team were Cheryl Hanson and Julie Mathews. The 'B' team was made up of Dar Wojtkiewicz, Debbie Compton, Sherri Damiano and Linda Desrosiers.

Two Meadows Mustangs also had superb performances, cracking the 500 barrier. Kim Williams shot a 505 with games of 186-135-184. Teammate Pam Ahrens fired a 500 with games of 131-167-202.

"When Rolling Meadows lost theirs (the one point), we knew we could lose three and still win it," said Falcon coach Pam Frase. "We won by the skin of our teeth."

Frase said her team was under tremendous pressure "because Buffalo Grove was not a poor team. But we pulled through."

"We bowled very well," said Joan Jensen, Meadows' coach. "We went out like champions."

In other action, it was Conant 9, Hersey 0; Schaumburg 6, Fremd 3; Palatine 9, Elk Grove 0, and Arlington 7, Wheeling 2. See scoreboard for details and final standings.

Bing's MVP charge powers East stars

League-leading scorer Bob McAdoo put on a display of his run-and-gun style with 22 points, but Dave Bing poured in all 16 of his points in the second half to win the Most Valuable Player award and lead the more-experienced East squad to a 123-109 triumph over the West in Tuesday night's NBA All-Star game.

The victory was the 17th for the East in the 26-game history of the All-Star classic and was earned despite very loose defense and poor shooting by both teams.

A hot hand by the Washington Bullets' Bing in the third quarter, when he socred 10 points, shot the East out to its biggest lead of the game to that point, 76-69, as it reeled off an 8-2 streak in two minutes.

The East carried an 83-80 lead into the final period and built it up to 105-94 with 5:38 left in the game on the shooting of Buffalo's McAdoo and Bing, who combined for 18 points in the fourth quarter.

The teams exchanged the lead often before the East finally took control midway through the third period.

NBA owners against merger

National Basketball Association Board of Governors Tuesday declared its unanimous opposition to a merger of the league with the struggling American Basketball Association or any other league.

That announcement by NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien, came on the heels of the announcement that players and owners had agreed to a means of settling out of court the so-called "Oscar Robertson" freedom suit. The settlement calls for modifying the draft and eliminating the mandatory option clause and compensation clause over a four-year period.

The entire settlement, if approved by the presiding judge, would not be renegotiable for 10 years.

The "Oscar Robertson" suit had been believed to be the major roadblock to NBA-ABA merger talks. The players had won an injunction prohibiting such talks until the case was settled. However, it turned out the NBA owners were not interested in merger anyway and said so in a resolution adopted unanimously Tuesday.

DePaul tops Duquesne, 89-75

DePaul's Ron Norwood scored 31 points Tuesday night to lead DePaul to an 89-75 victory over visiting Duquesne. Dave Corzine added 20 points for DePaul and Curtis Watkins 18.

Duquesne's Norm Nixon had a game-high 34 points and Don Gambridge added 15. Duquesne, is now 9-7 and DePaul is 13-6.

Cheevers returning to Bruins

Goaltender Gerry Cheevers finally agreed to terms Tuesday with the Boston Bruins, capping a week's worth of negotiations with the team he once helped to two Stanley Cups. The agreement covers the 35-year-old goalie through the end of the 1976-77 season, according to Managing Director Harry Sinden.

Cheevers backstopped the Bruins' Stanley Cup ins in 1970 and 1972, then jumped to the Cleveland Crusaders of the infant World Hockey Association for an estimated $200,000 annual salary. He played 3½ seasons with the Crusaders before resigning last week over a dispute with management.

NFL players okay veterans' draft

The National Football League Players' Association declared Tuesday it will offer no legal opposition to a draft of veterans to stock the expansion rosters of the new Tampa Bay and Seattle teams.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL players' union, said: "We are not going to challenge the veterans draft. As far as the association is concerned, there were and are no plans to challenge it."

He noted, however, that some individual players might file suit if they are placed in the expansion pool and taken by the two new teams.

Error made in Babe's RBI total

Baseball's Official Records Committee announced Tuesday they have made several changes in the game's rule structure and also discovered a clerical error that changes Babe Ruth's lifetime runs-batted-in total.

The committee found a clerical error in the official compilation of Ruth's RBI total in 1926, changing the slugger's league-leading total for that year from 155 to 145. The committee also found that Ruth was shortchanged by five RBI's, all coming from mistakes pertaining to five of his 714 career home runs during the 1921-23 period.

The adjustments placed Ruth's career RBI total at 2,204, second best to Hank Aaron's 2,262.

Clarifying the pinch-hitter rule, because sometimes in the past substitute batters have been credited with pinch-hitting twice in an inning, the committee adopted the following definition: "A player shall be considered a pinch-hitter only if he enters the game as a substitute batter and then only on his first time at bat which must be before he becomes a fielder."

The committee also agreed that a player sent in as a substitute batter for a designated hitter shall be considered a pinch-hitter; however, his performance will be counted in the designated hitter statistics — retroactive to 1973, when the AL began the DH rule.

San Fransisco delays Giant sale

The city of San Francisco won a major, but perhaps temporary, victory Tuesday when Superior Court judge took under submission for "two to three weeks" a temporary injunction request that would keep the National League baseball Giants from being sold to a group from Toronto. The judge's decision, not quite what the city attorney originally sought, gives San Francisco additional time to determine whether an $11 million offer from former sports entrepreneur Robert Short is viable.

West tips West; Niles over Maine

by BOB GALLAS

The Maine West Warriors just couldn't make up for their first-half mistakes and lost the Central Suburban League battle for first place to Niles West, 74-63, Tuesday night.

The Indians had three, 20-point quarters and opened up a 12-point lead at the half. The Warriors did not come closer than eight points in the final half and never seriously threatened.

The teams came out even with 27 rebounds each, and shot near even from the field. But the game was decided at the free throw line with some help from Maine West in the form of turnovers.

Struggling all night to keep up with the Indians' lightning-quick offense, Maine West committed 20 fouls, sending the Indians to the free throw line 28 times.

And the Indians took advantage, cashing in for 20 points from the free throw line.

Niles West, now 8-1 and alone atop the South Division, also put the clamps on Warrior scoring ace Bob Zuccarini, who finished the night with six points after being shut out in the first half.

Niles West coach Billy Schnurr, without the services of two of his top six players, said he was pleased with every aspect of his team's play.

"We had few errors, an excellent shot selection, were prepared for their zone and then did well when they went to the man-to-man in the second half," Schnurr said.

The Indians displayed a balanced scoring punch that attacked the Warriors inside when they came out on defense, then assaulted from the perimeter when the Warriors sagged back.

Bob Zyburt led the Indians with 23 points. Pivotman John Bruner popped in 18. Guard Marty Fabian, who shadowed Zuccarini for three quarters, had 15. Dave Schmidt, filling in for Jim Eckenberg who is out with a broken leg, tossed in 14 for the Indians. Sixth man John Anastos had the flu and did not dress for the game.

Buddy Doroskin led the Warriors with 18, including 10, third-quarter points. Bill Fininis had 16.

The loss drops the Warriors to 6-3 in the CSL South.

Cougars, Falcons notch triumphs

by KEITH REINHARD

"Yes, we can play some offense too, when we have to."

Dick Redlinger made the observation. His defensive-minded Conant team had little choice other than to seek out the hoop late in their game at Wheeling Tuesday if victory was on their minds.

It was, and the Cougars roared from behind to a 59-54 triumph in the cross-division Mid-Suburban contest.

Coach Redlinger's crew trailed by five going into the fourth quarter after dominating the Wildcats through most of the first half. A flurry of scoring by 'Cat pivotman Keith Schildt left the visitors behind in the third period and set the stage for the dramatic comeback.

Wheeling employed a full court man-to-man press through the entire contest while Conant went with their usual zone defense. The effect appeared to have no result on either side although both Schildt and Cougar scoring ace Ron Sulaski were held well below par on the scoreboard until the later going.

With less than five minute to go in period three and the 'Cats down 32-31, Schildt slammed home four close-in shots and Dan Larson dropped in a pair to shoot Wheeling out in front 43-38.

Over the first four minutes of the final stanza, however, the guests outscored the hosts 17-2 and it was Sulaski spearheading the comeback with three inside shots.

Conant nearly had five finish in double figures, led by Pete Scaffidi's 15. Brian Begrowicz paced the hosts with 17 while Schildt contributed 16.

Lunak leads Falcons

by ART MUGALIAN

Forest View's Tom Lunak scored 23 points, including 14 in the first half, and the Falcons hit 17 free throws in the second half to pull away from visiting Palatine in a 63-51 crossover victory Tuesday.

In moving their record to 5-13, the Falcons played a tough brand of defense, holding the Pirates to just 22 points after intermission and pretty much putting the clamps on the Mid-Suburban's leading scorer, Kevin McKenna.

Lunak canned seven baskets in the first half, all from the ozone, as the Falcons mounted a lead that stretched to seven points on a couple of occasions. But key buckets by Ken Reid and Mark Barnes helped cut the margin to one at halftime.

McKenna, the 6-foot-6 junior, finished with 23 points, but he rarely had an open shot and was never allowed to roam untended inside. Barnes, another junior, scored 16, as Palatine fell to 5-11.

Forest View shot just 2-for-9 from the free throw line in the first half, but the Falcons improved on that figure with 17-for-21 in the second stanza. Leading the barrage from the stripe was 6-3 center Jim O'Rourke, who pumped in eight in a row in the final two quarters to finish up with 17 points.

Lunak swished a baseline shot with two seconds left in the third quarter to open up a 44-41 Falcon lead after Palatine had pushed in front by one point on a basket by Barnes.

Two free throws by O'Rourke and a steal and layup by Lunak near the start of the fourth period were all Forest View needed to turn the tide.

Hot-shooting DuPage stymies Harper, 89-57

The College of DuPage fashioned a blistering 63 per cent shooting percentage from the field against Harper Tuesday night and clubbed the Hawks, 89-57.

The hot-handed Chaparrals boasted four players in double figures while Harper was suffering through a 33 per cent field goal night from the floor.

"They just intimidated us out there," Harper coach Roger Bechtold said. "They scored inside in the first half and from the outside in the second half. We were able to contain their fast break in the second half, but they still killed us outside."

Harper, outrebounded 36-22, was forced out of its offensive patterns by a tenacious man-to-man half-court press applied by the bigger Chaparral outfit.

DuPage rocketed to a 40-26 halftime spread by unleashing a devastating fast-break offense that was ignited by the Chaparrals, superiority on the boards.

And while DuPage was hitting on almost two of every three shots launched from the floor, Harper's leading scorer Jim Arden was limited to just eight points off an exceptional defensive performance by Don Ellis.

Walt Butman paced the Hawks in scoring with 16 while Bill Kenny was a step behind with 15. Scott Green and Steve Loughman joined Arden with eight apiece.

But it wasn't enough to match DuPage's front-liners who combined for 58 points in a near-perfect execution of basketball.

Only two girls' teams undefeated in basketball

The big winners in girls' basketball were Fremd, Wheeling, Forest View, Hoffman Estates, Arlington and Prospect Tuesday night.

Fremd's Heidi Giesler paced the Vikings' attack with 16 as they defeated a fine Conant Cougar team 54-35. High scorer for the Cougars was Linda Webb with 12. The Vikings' upped their record to 3-0 with the Cougars' dropping to 2-1.

Wheeing romped to its second win without a loss in handling Schaumburg, 68-18. Debbie Hassler and Denise Begrowicz paced the winning Wildcats with 12 points each. Schaumburg, now 0-4, was led by Carol Mazikowski's eight.

Deb Brinkman led Forest View to a 59-37 win over debuting Sacred Heart on their 18-point effort. Karen Loicano tossed in 15 for the losers. It was the Falcons' third win in four tries.

Claire Dowling burned the nets for 21 points as Hoffman Estates stopped Buffalo Grove, 56-42. Joyce Gallagher paced the Bison with 15. Hoffman's record is 3-1 and Buffalo Grove's dropped to 1-3.

Arlington upped its record to 2-1 with a 38-20 victory over Elk Grove. It was the Grenadiers' first loss in two games. Val Weidner led the winners with 16 points.

Prospect registered its first win in two games with a 38-34 decision over Hersey. Lou Sandstrom was the Knights' high scorer with 10. Hersey, now 0-2, was paced by Jody Stembridge's 10 points.

West swimmers travel today

Maine West swimmers will compete in their final regular meet of the year at 4:30 p.m. today when they travel to meet conference foe Niles East.

The meet was originally scheduled for Friday, but was moved up at the request of the Niles East team, according to Maine West Coach Scott Chovanec who said he'll use the meet to prepare his swimmers for the conference meet.

"We'll be switching just about everybody around, getting them to swim in different events," Chovanec said. The Warriors are presently in fourth place in the tough Central Suburban League South. West sports a 4-2 league mark after a tough loss to third place Maine East last Friday.

The meet will take place at the Niles West pool, rather than the Maine East pool, Chovanec said.

John Bench Ltd. is best bet for future security

Jim Murray

PALM SPRINGS — I don't know how U.S. Steel is going to do in the next 10 years or whether the dollar will bounce back on the international market or what the Dow Jones will do.

But I can tell you one privately held enterprise I'd like to have 10% of for the next decade and I'd be set for life.

All that's required is a legal decision upholding the Andy Messersmith-Dave McNally case, throwing out the reserve clause in baseball, and I would call my broker and tell him to get me a piece of John Bench Ltd. I'd hock the house.

Every place you look in John Bench's future you see money. Color him green and gold. He's a better investment than Arab oil.

You look at his statistics in baseball and you have to pinch yourself when you realize he's only 28 years old and could have 12 more years wrecking the National League — 240 lifetime home runs, 855 runs batted in, 236 doubles, 695 runs.

But the real measure of the man is not the hits, runs, RBI's, homers. You measure John Bench's career in pennants. He comes with the pennant.

The home run championship is worth thousands to a ballclub. So is the Cy Young award, or the MVP award. But the pennant is worth millions.

Baseball teams occasionally hire soloists to bolster flagging attendance. The game is supposed to be a series of solo performances anyway. "And now, ladies and gentlemen, Johnny Bench and his magic bat in a series of toccatas for home run and orchestra."

There are any number of performers who play for the Sporting News or the trophy case. Johnny Bench plays for the flag.

Since he came to Cincinnati in his first full year in 1968, the Reds have won three pennants, one World Series and four division titles. These are dynastic figures.

It isn't as if Johnny Bench is a star only with a bat in his hands. He would be a $100,000 ballplayer just with a mitt. He's not just a catcher. He's a fifth infielder. In the World Series last year, he made five assists from his catcher's crouch, three in one game. He tagged out so many Red Sox at home plate that the Red Sox began to hesitate to try to score from third on a clean single to right. The Red Sox tried only one steal at second base in the entire series. Rick Burleson was thrown out by 19 feet. Some people were surprised he got that close.

Johnny Bench had no passed balls last season. Only four catchers in history have done that. (Ted Simmons on the Cardinals had 28, and Ray Katt once had four in an inning.)

So, all Johnny Bench has to do is go public, and the issue will be oversubscribed in minutes. All he has to do is get listed on the Big Board, and shares will be selling like Alaskan oil certificates.

You have to expect that one of the big fans of a court decision throwing out the reserve clause and dumping baseball players on the open market for competitive bidding would be John L. Bench.

Baseball owners, for years, have had the legal right to sell ballplayers for cash, an action which seems, somehow, more immoral than trading them. Connie Mack, for example, was able to deal out millions of dollars worth of ballplayers and then pocket the cash — as if, somehow, he had something to do with Jimmie Foxx or Al Simmons being able to hit the curveball out of the lot, or Lefty Grove being able to throw the fastball.

But the latest arbitration ruling gives baseball players the right to sell themselves. Johnny Bench has to be worth $6 million to himself on such a market.

Of course, a lot of people would hate to see it happen. The owner, manager, and other players on the Cincinnati Reds — and every last living resident of Cincinnati, Ohio.

What makes this interesting is that the resident of Cincinnati who makes it unanimous is Johnny Lee Bench.

It's not that Johnny Bench doesn't like money. It's just that he likes baseball more.

"Baseball got me everything I have. It's so great a game and so high in public esteem right now after last year's World Series that you have to be concerned with something that works against perpetuating it. I want to leave it intact for some other kid coming up out of Oklahoma, maybe one of my nephews. You have to be concerned for your values, anyway. Of course, some guys don't have any values. But I think you have to realize the game could be totally wiped out as we now know it, and irreparable damage done if we don't sit down and try to compromise this thing.

"Sure, you got to think of yourself. Everybody says 'Gee! Look at that Johnny Bench. He made $19,060 for one week's work in the Series.' Well, I got to keep exactly $8,300 of that.

"I don't think I could be too happy with myself playing out my option in Cincinnati as good as those people have been to me. I mean, like, you can't like yourself much. And what about the guys who are 22nd to 25th on the roster? They may find themselves on a disbanded franchise."

Johnny Bench, who was playing in the American Airlines pro athlete golf tournament down here, feels that it won't even be the money which will make baseball anarchic or even archaic. "It'll be an ego thing. Look, most players want to play on a winning team. Getting in the World Series is really the trip. It's money, but it's also ego, power, recognition, invitations to the best places. That kind of thing. You will see guys gravitating to success the way football players from high school gravitate to the colleges that are successes."

Ano one wants to play in the dark. And no one would have wanted to play in Cincinnati before Johnny Bench got there. But Mr. Pennant is not for sale in shares, over-the-counter (or under), bid, ask or wholesaled. Johnny Bench hopes never to have to open a list of sealed bids for his services because he feels that one of them may be for baseball sealed doom.

Volleyball all-star team has 5 girls repeating

Five girls have earned all-conference honors for the second straight year in Mid-Suburban League volleyball.

Of the seven North Division players selected, four are repeaters on this second annual all-star list. Two are Wheeling seniors — Mary Meyer and Sandy Philip. Senior Terry Ciffone of Hersey and junior Michelle Smithern of Buffalo Grove round out this exclusive list.

The only two-year league star in the South Division is Schaumburg junior Kathy Svoboda.

The rest of the all-conference selectees that were chosen by the MSL coaches are as follows:

North Division — Terry Guindon, senior, Palatine; Terry Miller, senior, Hersey; and Debbie Underwood, junior, Buffalo Grove.

National outdoor skate title to Guy

Scott Guy of Palatine won his second consecutive national outdoor speed skating title at St. Paul, Minn. last weekend, surpassing the rest of the field in the Intermediate Men's division.

Guy, 16, is in his first year of competition in the intermediate division after the Palatine High School student captured national outdoor juniors and North American indoor juniors titles last year.

But Guy wasted no time in asserting himself in his new age bracket. At St. Paul, Scott grabbed victories in three of the six events he competed in — the 800 meters, the 1000 meters, and the 3000 meters. His 16 total points easily outdistanced Steve Busyman of California and George Luft of Michigan, who accumulated 12 points each to tie for second place.

Scott's sisters, Lorilynn, 14, and Cheryl, 13, also competed in the meet at St. Paul.

Guy, who skates out of the Northbrook club, will be looking ahead in future weeks to the North American Outdoor at Lake Placid (N.Y.) and several other big meets.

Debbie Carlstrom of Des Plaines finished second in the Intermediate Women's division.

Hoffman track team opens with triumph

A young but experienced Hoffman Estates track team captured first place in its opening indoor meet of the season last weekend, nipping Niles West, 72-71, as three other teams lagged behind.

Maine North (26), Lake View (25), and Roosevelt (23) were also competing in the five-team meet at Niles East's fieldhouse, but the Hawks of coach Jim Swift got their chief opposition from Niles West.

"We got some good performances from our kids, especially the long jumpers and triple jumpers," said Swift, whose Hawks were fourth indoors in the Mid-Suburban League lest year.

Bill DiPuma won the triple jump with a 39-5 effort, and Randy Krifmanich took first in the long jump at 19-10. DiPuma was second in the long jump (18-11) and third in the 50-yard dash (:05.9). Krifmanich was second in the 50 (:05.8).

Other firsts for Hoffman came from Steve Lind in the 440-yard dash (:55.0), Dave Paape in the pole vault (13-6) and Paape in the high jump (6-0). Freshman shotputter Kevin Sprague took second in the varsity event with a toss of 41-3.

Conant failed to take a first place in a three-team meet at Evanston Friday, but the Cougars got some excellent performances, including a school record in the two-mile relay. Brian Foss, Jim Schopp, Bill Baird, and Jeff Krautwurst ran the relay in 8:17.

Pat Hagan was third in the two-mile run in 10:07 and Tony Stompanto (:07.6) and Sam Assil (:07.65) placed in the 60-yard low hurdles for Conant.
